MORE PAY FOR 100,000 EMPLOYED IN MILLS

Another Ten Per Cent. Increase Granted New England Factory Workers

A 10 per cent. increase in wages was granted today to about 100,000 mill workers throughout New England. The advances made will put the pay of textile operatives in most of the New England mills on the highest basis in the history of the industry.

Aggregate payrolls of millions of dollars are involved and the increases definitely granted today mean thousands of dollars more in the pocket of the worker.

The increase in wages will take effect on Monday, March 25. The first move in granting the increase was made by the American Woolen Company when it posted a notice in the Wood, Ayer and Washington mills at Lawrence, employing 18,000 operatives, stating that a ten per cent. raise would go into effect March 25. A short time later the company announced that this increase would be general in its mills all over New England and in New York State.

OTHER MILLS FOLLOW SUIT.

Immediately following the announcement of the American Woolen Company, the Pacific, Arlington, Everett, Kunhardt, Pemberton and Duck mills announced similar increases, benefiting about 50,000 more workers. The number of operatives in PUBLIC BEQUESTS IN VON L. MEYER'S WILL

Four Massachusetts institutions received bequests in the will of the late George von L. Meyer, former Secretary of the Navy, which was filed for probate at Salem today.

The Boston Lying-In Hospital, Dedham Home, Massachusetts General Hospital and the Huntington Hospital of Boston were given $2,500 each in the will, which was filed by Elbridge E. Anderson, personal counsel for the deceased.

With the exception of a few minor bequests, the residue of the estate is left to his son, George von L. Meyer, to be held in trust by Philip Dexter, and the income to be paid to the son's wife and children. The personal property goes to the widow, with the stipulation that it is to remain in the family.

TRADING IS LISTLESS IN STOCK EXCHANGE

New York, March 14.—Trading was dull at the opening of the stock market today, with price changes narrow and generally to higher levels.

The market tone became stronger after the first fifteen minutes. Most of the stocks made gains ranging from one to three points. Reading rose 3¼ points to above 84. Chesapeake & Ohio was up 1⅞ to 60¾ and St. Paul preferred, after selling at 73, went to 74⅝. American Can moved up 2⅜ to 45⅝.

Steel common advanced to 81⅜, and gains of around a point were made in Bethelhem Steel B, Baldwin and Crucible. Marine preferred reacted from 95¼ to 97⅜.

Children Rescued as Liner Hits

Mrs. Mary Midgette Tells Thrilling Story of Her Trip Aboard S.S. Kershaw.

Edna Midgette, three, and Bernice, five, who with their mother were taken off the Merchants & Miners' liner Kershaw after the vessel went aground. They are all safe today in Boston.

The thrilling night rescue of a mother and her two children from the Merchants & Miners' liner Kershaw while it was aground off the coast was described to the AMERICAN today by the mother, Mrs. Mary Midgette, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ernest Arey, No. 399 Riverway, Back Bay.

The rescued children, Bernice and Edna, are aged five and three years.

The Kershaw was driven between two sandbars in a fog and was in danger of being battered to pieces.

"It was my first experience on the ocean," said Mrs. Midgette. "I was in bed with my two children.

"About 11 o'clock I was awakened by a commotion on deck. Suddenly members of the crew warned passengers to put on life preservers. My children were seasick, for the ocean was very rough, and when I started to put on a life preserver I got a sickening sensation, as though I was going to drown.

ONE OF TWO WOMEN.

"My first thought was for the children. I dressed them hurriedly and then dressed myself.

"All this time I could hear the men talking about the ship being aground. I felt a shock as if the ship had struck a rock. She shivered and careened. Oh, I was so frightened! I was one of two women aboard the ship. Everything movable went this

HOLLAND WARNED TO RELEASE VESSELS

America and Britain Give Her Till Monday to Reply; Ships Needed to Feed Neutrals

By International News Service.

Washington, March 14.—Unless Holland voluntarily releases a certain amount of shipping to the United States and Great Britain by next Monday, those countries will be compelled to take over the Holland shipping in British and American ports, it was authoritatively stated this afternoon.

This step is inevitable if neutral countries are to be fed, it was stated.

August Phillips, the Dutch minister, was in conference with the President this afternoon at the White House.

If Dutch shipping is taken over by the United States and Great Britain, it will be done under the universally accepted sovereign rights of nations under international law. Holland's situation has been different, as that country's shipping has been under threat of being sunk by Germany.

The London proposals looking to securing of some of Holland's ships have been lying dormant for two months because Holland has been afraid to take any action.

It is not the intention of the United States or Great Britain to take any advantage of Holland in this matter, but those countries have no alternative than to commandeer Holland's ships. Ample financial compensation will be given to Holland for her ships and they will be returned to that country in as good shape as when received or will be replaced.

NEW BEDFORD SCHOOL TEACHERS TALK STRIKE

New Bedford, March 14.—Twelve Dartmouth street school teachers threatened to strike because the city treasury department has held up their pay. When the paymaster called at the school today to give the teachers their salaries they refused to sign for the money without first being given an opportunity to open the envelopes or have the paymaster open them to be certain they contained the full amount. In two instances recently the teachers claim envelopes were $20 short. They say the matter was not rectified after protest.

PERSHING REPORTS REPULSE OF HUNS

Enemy Attempting Trench Raid Driven Off With Only Slight Losses by Americans

By International News Service.

Washington, March 14.—General Pershing in a cablegram to the War Department today told briefly of the American troops' repulse of a German trench raid early in the morning of March 5. Headed "Summary of activities of the Forty-second (Rainbow) Division front, night of March 4 and 5," the cablegram read:

"The enemy attempted trench raid early morning of March 5. Same was repulsed with losses to the enemy. Our losses reported light. No missing or prisoners. General Gerard, commanding Eighth French army, congratulated the division commander on the way in which troops repulsed the raid."

Wilson Has Close Call in Capital Traffic Jam

By International News Service.

Washington, March 14.—President Wilson had a narrow escape from being run down by a moving van this afternoon. Crossing Fifteenth street, just ahead of three Secret Service men, he was momentarily caught in a traffic jam.

A procession of three moving vans was lumbering along, the first one in the line almost grazing the executive. The President, by cool and active manoeuvring, managed to keep clear and reached the other side of the street in safety. He was said to be on his way to the shipping board.

EXPLOSIVE FOUND AT BIG SHIP PLANT

Industrial Chief Gives Reasons for Employment of Extra Number of Guards

Washington, March 14.—Two hundred and forty pounds of dynamite, "enough to blow up half the plant," were found hidden in various places around the Hog Island shipyard last month, according to testimony today before the Senate Commerce Committee.

The statement was made by Dudley Reed Kennedy, head of the industrial relations department at Hog Island, in justification for the large number of guards kept on the payroll.

The dynamite was discovered from time to time over a period of about a month, Kennedy said, buried in small quantities over a scattered area about the shipyard. How it got there is a complete mystery, he testified. The case is now in the hands of the United States Secret Service.

Mr. Kennedy also said he understood there is a shortage of steel at the Hog Island plant now. Twelve ways have been completed, but only two keels have been laid. Try as they ten keels will be laid as soon as steel is available, he said.

He described housing conditions and told of his department's work in providing shelter for the workmen. Barracks housing 4,000 have been completed. Accommodations for 13,000 more have been procured by a campaign for rooms in Philadelphia, but this had been stopped, he said, by publicity given by the newspapers.

NEW YORK GIRL DEAD IN AIR RAID ON PARIS

By International News Service.

New York, March 14.—One young American woman was killed and another young American woman and a man were wounded in the German air raid on Paris, according to word received here today by the National War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A.

Miss Winona C. Martin of Lockville Center, N. Y., was killed. She was in Paris awaiting assignment to a canteen near the front.

A Miss Phillips and Carl J. Seitz were the injured. All three were Y. M. C. A. workers. Miss lived in Grand Rapids, Mich. The war council has no record of Miss Phillips.

AVIATION SERVICE RECRUITING STOPS

Enlistments for the aviation section of the Signal Corps of the regular army have now stopped, according to orders received today from Washington at the army recruiting station, No. 3 Tremont row. No reason was given for the order. Those who have already been examined and passed will be put into service, but no more enlistments or applications for this service will be received. Men for the 65th Engineers will be assigned to the tank service and will be sent to Camp Gettysburg, Pa.

DECLARE FISH TRUST MAKES THREATS

Charges of threats, extortion and other high-handed methods were directed at the fish trust today in the legislative investigation at the State House.

Testimony was given that opponents of the trust were threatened with dire consequences if they appeared at today's hearing. It was also stated that prices are fixed each morning on the floor of the fish exchange at South Bostop and that 1 per cent. of each catch is exacted for the privilege of selling it on the floor.

These charges were made by Curtis H. Burt of No. 10 Perrin street, Roxbury, trustees for an institution; George A. Bishop, a Dorchester fish peddler; William H. Brown, representing the Fishermen's Union.

FIVE ARE SLAIN IN NEW RAID ON ENGLAND

By International News Service.

London, March 14.—Five persons were killed and nine injured at Hartlepool last night by bombs dropped from a German air raider, according to an official statement issued today by Lord French, commander-in-chief of the home defences.

Four bombs were dropped upon the city of Hartlepool.

As the official statement used the term "airship," it is presumed that Zeppelins were again employed by the Germans in their latest attack against the northeastern coast.

This was the second time in consecutive nights that German aircraft raided the northeastern coast.

Hartlepool stands upon a promontory jutting into the North Sea, nineteen miles southeast of the city of Durham. It has a vast system of docks, and there are large iron foundries and shipyards. It is in Durham County.

Russian Bolsheviki Aroused, Will Fight Prussian Menace

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Washington, March 14.—That the Russian Bolshevik forces intend organizing real opposition to the German invasion was reported to the State Department today by Ambassador Francis.

In a lengthy message, the first received for some days, the ambassador quoted utterances by Leon Trotsky which indicated that at last the Bolsheviki realize the danger of acceptance of a German-made peace.

While it was not stated by Mr. Francis to whom Trotsky talked, he made it plain that it was to an American official.

FEARS SIBERIAN INVASION.

Trotsky expressed grave concern over reports that entente forces might invade Siberia, according to the American ambassador, and indicated that he did not believe such action would be necessary.

He announced his intention of organizing "an army under iron discipline," with which the Russian government would be able to oppose Germany everywhere and keep the new republic a real force in the war.

It is understood that this conversation with the former Bolshevik foreign minister took place on either Sunday or Monday. The dispatch from Ambassador Francis made speedy progress in transmission. State De-

$1,325,000,000 NAVAL BILL REPORTED

Largest Budget in the Nation's History Includes 188 Millions for Aviation

By International News Service.

Washington, March 14.—The largest naval appropriation bill in the history of the nation was reported to the House this afternoon by the Committee on Naval Affairs. It appropriates $1,325,000,000, including $188,000,000 for naval aviation, a sum twice as large as that ordinarily asked.

TEUTONS CAPTURE ODESSA AND GAIN CONTROL OF THE BLACK SEA

FREE ROUTE TO INDIA AND AFGHANISTAN OPENED TO THE GERMANS

Amsterdam, March 14.—Odessa, the biggest shipping centre of what was up to a year ago today the Russian empire, the funnel through which drains the great granary of the Muscovite "Black Earth" belt, is virtually in the hands of the Teutons. German and Austro-Hungarian cavalry patrols are reported to have entered the city.

With the Teuton entry into this port, which puts all Russia from the Black Sea as one has just been cut off from the Baltic, opens a new drama in the world's history, with it at the same time closes one of the great tragedies of the world war, the tragedy of Rumania.

CZAR'S LEGIME PLEASED, FOR THE IMMEDIATE FUTURE

Concession of the Black Sea ports to Germany means the assembling and possible seizure either by threat or force of the Black Sea fleet, the occupation of or separate bargain with the Crimea, which is established itself as an independent republic Jan. 31.

The important peninsula is infested with grand dukes and selfstyled Russian generals, officers who were pillars of the Czar's regime and who would rejoice in making a deal with the Teutons that would save their estates.

Incorporation of the Russian Black Sea fleet in the Turkish navy, and a possible dash into the Mediterranean, supported by a strong fleet of U-boats, jointly with a land drive in Macedonia, and, lastly, a German land drive into the Far East, by way of Batum, to Transcaucasia (which was taken from Russia at Brest-Litovsk and given to Turkey), Baku, across the Caspian Sea to Krasnovodsk, in Turkestan, through Merv to the border of Afghanistan, thus threatening the Indian empire or inroads Teheran, across Central Persia, to Bushahr and Koweit on the Gulf to the Indian frontier, spelling equal menace to Britain's Far Eastern possessions.

PLANS ARE KEPT SECRET.

Every European capital is agog with rumor, whisper and gossip, here Berlin and Vienna are mystified. The Pan-German newspapers and the expansionist Austrian journals are printing columns of speculations, but it is clear from their vagueness that outside of the Central army command and a few of the highest ministerial circles, not even the Sultan, and the Bulgarian Czar, the Teuton plans are known.

Those who have throughout believed the whole advertisement of a Kaiserite western empire have a big bluff, designed to distract Entente attention from the Kaiser's real Far Eastern spheres, find strong support for their theory in the news that Odessa has virtually fallen, but of the bulk of Russia's grain stores, of the vast exports trade of Russia's southern provinces, completion of the "Iron Ring" around Rumania with the consequent almighty control of the lower course of the Danube.

RUSSIA WILL FIGHT, DECLARES TROTZKY

Trotzky's position was accepted by officials here as reassuring. It was believed that he and the other Bolshevik leaders at last realize that war with Germany is unavoidable, and that they will now be willing to accept any and all assistance which may be afforded them by the entente powers.

It also was believed here that if the statements of Trotzky are endorsed by the Soviet Congress, which met today in Moscow, the entire Japanese-Russian situation will lend itself to speedy adjustment.

This report from Ambassador Francis went a long way toward offsetting the result of the capture of Odessa by Germany. State department officials made no attempt today to discount the importance of this latest German conquest. It will remain, they said, large quantities of grain which have been stored there since 1914. Frequent stores are on hand there, it is understood, and these have, of course, fallen to the Germans.

French Repel Night Attacks; Guns Active on Entire Battle Front

By International News Service.

Paris, March 14.—Three surprise attacks were made by the Germans during the night in the sectors of Maison de Champagne, Vauquois and Hoenie, but the War Office announced today that all were repulsed. Under the effective French fire the attacking groups were dispersed.

Artillery duelling occurred along practically the entire French front.

Help the American in Giving Full Honor to U. S. Heroes

The War Department has announced that hereafter no lists of casualties of American soldiers will be issued to the press in which the addresses of the soldier dead will be given. Instead, the War Department will notify the families of the deceased by mail.

While this will give the information to the immediate family of those who are lost, friends and relatives will remain in ignorance of the tragedy. These friends and relatives should be informed.

Therefore when you receive notice of the death or illness of a member of your family with the troops in France, if you will fill out the subjoined form and mail it to the Boston AMERICAN, this paper will publish the facts at once.

First Woman Spy in United States Caught in Michigan

By International News Service.

Kalamazoo, Mich., March 14.—It became known today that the first woman spy suspect had been arrested in Michigan at Muskegon and taken to Grand Rapids for investigation by Federal authorities. It is alleged that the woman, whose name was withheld by the officials, has secured from the government plans of Camp Custer and other military camps.

A number of officers at that camp are said to have been victims of the woman's wiles. The alleged spy's efforts at a Kalamazoo rooming house have been seized and are being examined.

OLD FARMER'S ALMANACK PUBLISHER DIES AT 79

John Gray, who published the Old Farmer's Almanack for the past fifty years, is dead at his home, No. 15 Bellflower street, Medford, at the age of seventy-nine. He was born in Salem, served with F Company, 23d Massachusetts Infantry, in the Civil war, and was a commander of Post 4, G. A. R. He is survived by his wife and two daughters. The funeral will take place at 2:30 o'clock Sunday at the house.

WILL PREVENT EXECUTION OF SOLDIERS

Death Sentences on U. S. Sentries Found Asleep in France Declared Illegal

By International News Service.

Washington, March 14.—The first American soldiers condemned to death by court-martial in France, two for sleeping on post and two for disobedience of orders, will not be shot.

Reports that the evidence in these cases had been sent to President Wilson were erroneous it was learned today. Instead, the reviewing authority is expected to order Judge Advocate Ansell's office—after inspection of the records in the case, has returned them to General Pershing with a notation showing that the findings were irregular.

Certain technicalities which must be observed are understood to have been overlooked by the court. These irregularities are said to be of such a kind as General Pershing will not hesitate to set aside the findings of the court and restore the men to duty.

It is probable, of course, that some of the errors may be corrected, but officials who are completely familiar with the situation declared today that the men never would be executed.

Official advice today pleased slightly the action of General Pershing in sending these findings to the War Department for review. Under law the army he and the power to order the sentences executed, but did not do so. That he did not do so undoubtedly has prevented a miscarriage of justice.

The cases of the five colored soldiers awaiting execution for participation in the Houston riots await the result of other trials before the President will act upon them.

GENERAL WEIGLE ORDERED SOUTH

command of an infantry brigade of the 28th Division, a National Guard outfit composed mostly of men from Pennsylvania. First Lieutenant Harry Barnett, son of the "Vanilla Kid," and General Weigle's aide, will probably go to Camp Hancock with him. Lieutenant Burnett's home is in Moultonboro, N. H. Lieut. R. R. Perry has been placed in temporary command of the Depot Brigade.

It was also made known here today by the division judge advocate, Colonel E. K. Massee, that hereafter a board of three physicians will pass the power to order an operation performed upon any man in the cantonment if such operation is found to be necessary.

ONE SOLDIER WAS TRIED.

This order means major operations, as well as minor ones, and is the outcome of the case in this cantonment in which an enlisted man refused to submit to an operation ordered by a camp surgeon and was court-martialled. The charge against the soldier was later quashed.

Every man in the cantonment can claim 50 square feet of floor space and 500 cubic feet of air as his own in the future. This is the result of regulations issued by the surgeon-general at Washington and put into effect here by Lieutenant-Colonel Powell, division surgeon, ordering all unit commanders to mark on the doors of their barracks the total man capacity of those barracks in plain letters. This precaution has been adopted here to prevent overcrowding of sleeping quarters.

Seven men of the Engineers' Enlisted Reserve Corps were transferred to the inactive list today and ordered to report to the employment office of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation at Fore River. These men are all specialists in various shipbuilding trades and their transfer is part of the nation-wide progress to draft as many men as possible to rush the building of ships.

WEEDING OUT OFFICERS.

More men are also expected to be sent into the same service from this cantonment in the near future.

The first step in the weeding out of commissioned officers unfit for service in France was expected to be taken here today following a meeting of a "plucking board" which was scheduled to be held this afternoon. The men decided overseas duty will probably be used in non-combatant services in this country.

Lieutenant George E. Abbott of the 26th Infantry Reserve Corps has been made an assistant instructor in the division schools and will teach the students of the infantry trench cannon school. This appointment was made following the arrival here of the first of the French trench cannons that are to be used at this cantonment for instruction purposes.

It was also announced here today that commissioned officers in the medical and dental reserve corps will be allotted three months from the time they receive their commissions in which to make up their minds whether they will remain in the service or be transferred to the inactive list and be permitted to pursue their former vocations. This order is said to have been due to the numerous requests of physicians and dentists to be retired to the inactive list.

RAIN WAS FORECAST, BUT BOSTON GOT SNOW

A real New England snowstorm featured today's weather for Greater Boston. This weather man had forecasted rain, but snow was the answer through the morning hours.

The snow, scurrying down in fine flakes, seemed uncertain whether to turn to rain, develop into a blizzard or give it up as a bad job.

A squally wind chased the flakes hither and yon. It seemed to be anybody's guess as to how the day would turn out.

The weather man allows that rain, if it comes, will continue tomorrow, to be followed by fair and colder weather.

The War in Europe

By ANTHONY ARNOUX,
Famous Writer on Military Topics.

An Englishman actually on the Western front, with the requisite technical knowledge, and exceptionally well placed to know what is going on, writes as follows, on February 20th, concerning the expected German offensive:

"An immense amount of training for the attack has been going on for some time as you already know. Of late there has been sufficiently assured by our airmen and from other sources.

"To escape observation, however, much of the training is being done in remoter areas, and even immediately before the attack it would be obviously undesirable to have more evidence of concentrations in direct proximity to the line to be assaulted than necessary.

"Troops, therefore, must be brought up as far as possible at the last moment, and largely during the night before. So they are now being trained to make long marches of perhaps twenty miles to the hypothetical scene of action, and then after a short confinement in close billets, are precluded in the actual assault on what are supposed to be facsimiles of obscene portions of our, or the French front lines.

"The training is largely in the nature of open fighting, for the Germans seem to count on breaking our lines and getting the warfare into the open country behind without much difficulty.

NO PROLONGED BOMBARDMENT.

"There will probably be no prolonged, devastating bombardment such as has preceded most of our great assaults, but in the days before the assault much counter-battery shooting, for the gas and high explosive shells and long spells of destructive fire on trenches, communications, billets and so forth well in advance of the operation. Immediately before the attack there will be only a short burst of fire, behind which the men will come over in one grand rush.

"Armored cars are to do their share, while increasing numbers of mobile guns and trench motors will push up with and behind the supporting troops.

"The news of the last few days seems to indicate that the preliminary period described in the second paragraph of this gentleman's summary of the situation has begun, and the events of yesterday strengthen this impression.

"The news that the Teutons are actually in front of Odessa, and that their armies of that city is to be reduced shortly, has arrived, little sooner perhaps than looked for, though such a happening was clearly foreshadowed by the Rumanian treaty.

Rumania and South Russia are among the richest regions of the earth, and it is evidently the intention of the Teutons to exploit the resources of these regions to the utmost, and thus render themselves and their allies, in practically everything of primary importance, except coal, independent of the rest of the world. As regards cotton, it has long been known that they expect to be able to develop the region around Aleppo, in Asia Minor sufficiently to provide for their needs.

The Moscow Congress of Soviets has postponed its first meeting until today, apparently Lenine is still in effective control of this body.

The fighting on the Italian front was of a comparatively minor character and hence of no very absorbing interest.

AIR RAID ON ENGLAND.

For the first time in quite a while Zeppelins raided England early yesterday morning. Hull was bombed but the raid seemed to have accomplished but little of value.

The British raided Coblenz on the Rhine, whereon they dropped a ton of bombs.

There is nothing new in the Japanese situation definite. Judging, however, from the remarks of the Japanese Foreign Minister in the Japanese Diet yesterday, there is much going on in Eastern Asia concerning which we know nothing now.

Rumors from London reach us to the effect that Mr. Arthur Balfour will shortly retire from the Foreign Office.

MORE PAY FOR 100,000 MILL WORKERS

Ten Per Cent. Increase Voluntarily Granted Operatives in New England

Lawrence combining with those in other parts of New England make an aggregate of about 100,000 textile workers who will obtain higher wages.

Today's increases make an average total increase of about 60 per cent. that New England mill workers have obtained in the past two years. The increase made today was voluntary on the part of the employers, as have been several increases granted since the war opened.

Most of the mills are engaged in government contracts. The American Woolen Company's plants at Lawrence are at present almost entirely devoted to filling army orders. Since the outbreak of the war the mills have experienced an era of unusual prosperity.

Since September, 1915, the American Woolen Company has granted its operatives seven increases, aggregating a total increase of about 55 per cent.

Workers in cities in all parts of New England will benefit by the 10 per cent. increase made today. In Fall River, New Bedford, Lowell, Methuen, Fitchburg and many other cities there are large cotton mills. The increase affects more than 700 operatives in Fitchburg in the Arden and Beoli mills in that city.

CONTROLS 50 MILLS.

The announcement of the American Woolen Company today was the signal for another big wage advance in textiles. There exists keen competition in war contracts among the various concerns and to retain their employees and prevent looms from becoming idle wage offers on the part of one mill have been immediately met by the others. The American Woolen Company controls about fifty mills throughout New England.

BARTON, VT., FARMER IS THRICE REJECTED

Almon Urish Dingman of Barton, Vt., long instead of carrying out his cherished plan of fighting for Uncle Sam in the army or on the seas.

Today he was rejected by the Merchant Marine at the Boston headquarters, after having been previously turned down by the army and navy.

Although Dingman made a strong plea for acceptance, an affliction of the muscles of one arm unfitted him for service, in the opinion of the examining physicians.

He was assured that farming is one of the most essential parts of war work, and that without it the army could not go on. He was also informed that food production is so far behind the demand that a plan is now being considered to release soldiers to do the necessary farm work.

MILITARY FUNERAL FOR McLAUGHLIN IN NASHUA

Nashua, N. H., March 14.—The funeral of Peter A. McLaughlin, the first Nashua soldier to die in the war, took place today from St. Patrick's Church. Hundreds were unable to get in the church. The funeral cortege included L. Company, State Guard; Courts Nashua and Indian Head, A. O. F.; two divisions of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, a delegation from Camp Devens, including eight soldiers as bearers, and the city government, headed by the Nashua Military Band.

Rev. Matthew Creamer officiated at the solemn high mass, with Rev. Thomas Sullivan was deacon and Rev. Thomas Callahan sub-deacon. The companies escorted the flag-draped casket to the cemetery at Hudson, where taps were sounded.

DANIELS EAGER TO HAVE NAVY MEET FOE

Has Nothing to Fear in Event of Clash With Kaiser's Grand Fleet

By International News Service.

Washington, March 14.—Secretary Daniels is anxious to have the American navy come to grips with the Germans. In spite it clear in an interview today that he had nothing to fear in the event of a clash with the Teutons' grand fleet, but expressed the opinion that the enemy would never "come out."

"Some people have asked: 'Why don't the Americans go in after them?'" said the secretary.

"That is impossible. The Germans are protected by concealed land batteries of powerful range, the location of which cannot be determined. There's many a pretty little spot in Heligoland, apparently just the place for a Sunday school picnic, that masks the most powerful guns."

Secretary Daniels expressed the belief that open fighting, for the Germans seem to count on breaking our lines and getting the warfare into the open country behind without much difficulty.

Immediately before the attack there will be only a short burst of fire, behind which the men will come over in one grand rush.

"Armored cars are to do their share, while increasing numbers of mobile guns and trench motors will push up with and behind the supporting troops.

The news of the last few days seems to indicate that the preliminary period described in the second paragraph of this gentleman's summary of the situation has begun, and the events of yesterday strengthen this impression.

The news that the Teutons are actually in front of Odessa, and that their armies of that city is to be reduced shortly, has arrived, little sooner perhaps than looked for, though such a happening was clearly foreshadowed by the Rumanian treaty.

Rumania and South Russia are among the richest regions of the earth, and it is evidently the intentions of the Teutons to exploit the resources of these regions to the utmost, and thus render themselves and their allies, in practically everything of primary importance, except coal, independent of the rest of the world. As regards cotton, it has long been known that they expect to be able to develop the region around Aleppo, in Asia Minor sufficiently to provide for their needs.

The Moscow Congress of Soviets has postponed its first meeting until today, apparently Lenine is still in effective control of this body.

The fighting on the Italian front was of a comparatively minor character and hence of no very absorbing interest.

AIR RAID ON ENGLAND.

For the first time in quite a while Zeppelins raided England early yesterday morning. Hull was bombed but the raid seemed to have accomplished but little of value.

The British raided Coblenz on the Rhine, whereon they dropped a ton of bombs.

There is nothing new in the Japanese situation definite. Judging, however, from the remarks of the Japanese Foreign Minister in the Japanese Diet yesterday, there is much going on in Eastern Asia concerning which we know nothing now.

Rumors from London reach us to the effect that Mr. Arthur Balfour will shortly retire from the Foreign Office.

CHILDREN RESCUED FROM STRANDED SHIP

way and that and I pitched forward myself."

"Then there was another jar and I got another sickening sensation. Some men told me not to worry over the children, that if the worst came they would risk their lives to save them and me.

"Three life preservers were handed me, and after fastening them on my self and the one around myself.

Here Mrs. Midgette was interrupted by little Bernice, who volunteered the information in childlike fashion that she hated to put on the life preservers.

"I didn't like it because it was so heavy. I wasn't a bit scared. I like the water. I could see the lights in the windows off the water."

PRAISES THE CREW.

"Yes," said Mrs. Midgette, "we could see the lights in the windows of the houses. You don't know how beautiful they looked to us when we knew we were in danger of drowning. The joy of those lights will always live in my memory.

"The crew worked like Trojans to man the lifeboats in case it was necessary to make a quick getaway. Later things calmed down. The men seemed to possess great coolness. I was told to remain in the waiting room, and if anything happened we would be cared for.

"It sat in that waiting room for hours. When things began to look bad again the crew of the ship launched the lifeboats. I was on deck in an instant with the children. some were taken off in the beeches buoy. The children, the other woman and myself were rowed ashore."

Mrs. Midgette's daughter, Mrs. Arey, whose husband is in the navy, had a similar experience some years ago.

DENOUNCE FISH TRUST AT HEARING

It was also stated that the fish trust, through its control of the exchange, has the public and the fishermen at its mercy. Fishermen are forced to take whatever prices are offered them, and the trust is then able to charge whatever it sees fit. Small dealers, it is said, are forced out of business as rapidly as possible.

Miss Paul Keene, vice-president of the Housekeepers' League; Patrick J. Conroy, a former fisherman; Representative Jerome Smith of Gloucester, and Whitfield Tuck of Winchester were present at the hearing.

Room 262 was packed when the hearing opened before the joint legislative committee of which Senator Alpheus Sanford is chairman.

FISHERMEN EXPLOITED.

Senator Sanford announced that beginning Monday, hearings would be held continuously each forenoon, in order that all consumers who desire to may be heard.

The first witness today was Mr. Conroy, who lives at No. 7 Carmen street, Dorchester. He stated that for many years he had been a fisherman sailing out of Gloucester. He declared fishermen are exploited financially and politically, and urged legislation to subsidize their wages so that they would receive enough which would be equal to that of mechanics or other skilled workers.

Mr. Conroy stated it to be true that "after being at sea for seven weeks, a schooner will make port, only to find that the market price of fish has dropped to such an extent that every man of the crew, including the captain, will owe the owners money. The men are underpaid, the prices they receive being fixed by the fish trust. At Gloucester the Gorton-Pew corporation controls the entire business. Whenever a small dealer starts in doing business he is immediately forced out.

"As an instance of how poorly fishermen are paid, I remember on one occasion when fishermen were paid $1.25 a barrel for herring which were sold for five cents each. As there were 200 fish in the barrel, it is easy to see the profits.

"Fishermen are a hard-working lot of men, taking all kinds of chances. They are necessary to the life of the community, and legislation should be passed exempting them from the draft."

THE WOMAN'S VIEWPOINT.

Mrs. Paul Keene followed Conroy. She said in part:

"I do a lot of work among the poor, and I find no difficulty in convincing the mothers that the government is protecting them in the matter of sugar and coal. When it comes to food prices, however, they balk. The legislators make it very hard for me by not fixing prices of fish and other foods, so that I can convince the mothers that the government is on their side.

"Chowder fish, commonly used by the poor, is more than double what it was a comparatively short time ago, and the feeling exists that the rich are growing richer and the poor poorer. As a result it is impossible to instill patriotism into the hearts of women who want to be patriotic. They are told to eat substitutes for meat, particularly fish, and the prices of these substitutes are so high that it is almost impossible for the poor to secure them."

Whitfield Tuck of Winchester said that "there is something rotten in Denmark" when fish is dumped, as he has known it to be, from the wharves in order to keep the price up. He blamed the cold storage men for the high prices.

PEOPLE ARE SUSPICIOUS.

Mr. Tuck also declared that there is a suspicion among the people to the effect that little help may be expected from a fish trust, many of whose members are stockholders in the fish trust.

Representative Smith said that he voted against the investigation, as it was his experience that prices were always higher following an investigation of any kind. He said it was a waste of time and money, and blamed the scarcity of fishermen more than the scarcity of fish.

Filene's Automatic Bargain BASEMENT

The plan that forces bargains: All goods here must sell at first prices or be marked down automatically 25% after 12 selling days, 50% after 18 selling days, 75% after 24 selling days. Goods given away after 30 selling days.

For Friday, for Saturday:

55 men's pure worsted suits $12.50 because of imperfections in weaving

Fabrics were made by a well-known mill for a high-grade maker. The mill took the loss, the high-grade maker made the suits up, sold them to us at great savings, and here they are being passed on to you at savings.

Here are the sizes:

	34	35	36	37	38	39	40	42	44	46
Regular	1	1	8	1	7	5	4
Stout				1	3	3	4	4	3	2
Long		2	2	3	2	2

You might find an imperfection in the coat, in the trousers, or in the vest, or you might have a great deal of trouble finding one at all. All wood pure worsted, pencil stripe design; hand finished.

Left-over a hundred overcoats transferred down from upstairs

$8.50 $12.50 $14.75 $17.50

—Winter overcoats remaining unsold after upstairs shop took stock. It goes without saying that Basement prices are even lower than marked-down upstairs prices. Store one way for next year!

Men's soft hats, $1.45

Surplus stock of a high-grade local maker. Many colors and shapes to pick from. All have union labels.

Hundreds of other bargains lots

Ella E. Conomy says:

"'What's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander.'

"And for the gosling, too!

"It strikes me every time I go to Filene's Basement that I see more and more men there. I suppose, though, that other women are just doing what I did—dropping a little suggestion in the way of their men folks that they, too, can save if they choose to take advantage of Filene Basement bargains.

"There really is no reason in the world why the women of a family should do all the economizing, is there? I believe in equal rights for men and, with that idea in mind, I put mine 'wise' to how they could spend less and have just as much or more. And, to my surprise, I found that they took to the plan like ducks to water.

"For the children, I'd never think of buying clothes for them at regular prices when I can get them at the savings in Filene's Basement."

Rebuild France Movement Meets Approval from Coast to Coast

JOSEPH J. TYNAN, San Francisco, Cal., general manager Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, Ltd.

IT affords me great pleasure to inclose my personal check for $500 as a contribution to the fund being raised for rebuilding homes in France. This is splendid constructive work, and it will supplement the presence of our expeditionary forces in cheering our brave French allies. We of San Francisco know what desolation through loss of homes means, and the nobility of this movement should open our purses as well as appeal to our hearts. Personally, I regard it as a privilege to be a member of the committee and to be identified with its work in behalf of France.

EDWARD N. HURLEY, Chicago; head of Emergency Fleet Corporation.

IT is one of the finest things the American people could do for the French, who did so much for us in Revolutionary days when we needed help and got it from them.

The people of France are naturally thrifty, and the deeper the Americans go into the question of helping them in the enormous task of rehabilitation the more Americans will come to think of the movement. I think the idea beautiful. The movement is in every way splendid.

EDWARD L. DOHENY, Los Angeles, Cal., oil magnate, who gave $10,000 to the Rebuild France fund in that city.

THE knowledge on the part of the French civilian population that American cities are engaged in a movement to restore their ruined homes will be so welcome as to give them new courage.

Similarly, this program of reconstruction which will convey the message to the Germans of America's determination to extend unlimited help to the French, will work to the discouragement of our common enemy.

I am strongly in favor of the plan. It commends itself to clear thinking Americans as an effective means to extend aid and comfort to our valiant ally.

ALEXANDER H. REVELL, Chicago merchant and philanthropist.

THE desire and the effort of the Hearst papers to be of value in rebuilding France after the war is over should have unqualified approval and praise. The war, of course, must be settled first. But this should not deter work of organization and preparation. Cities and towns of France must be restored, not only for France, but for the world. Helping to do this shall be another monument to America.

Indebted as we are to France, through the enduring friendship of that great nation, no "after the war work" carries a greater degree of sentiment, combined with real constructive work, than is contained in the suggested idea.

WILLIAM C. REDFIELD, Washington, D. C., U. S. Secretary of Commerce.

I HAVE learned with much interest and pleasure of the movement to rebuild the devastated towns of France.

The project has my hearty approval.

I wish you the highest personal success in this fine effort.

It is a splendid idea.

EDWIN F. ROREBECK, New York, vice-president Metropolitan Trust Company.

IT'S a great idea. There is no question in my mind but that America will have to do its share in remedying the pitiable condition which exists in France today. Of course, the French Government, when the war is over, will carry on reconstruction work on a vast scale, but in the meantime there is a crying need, especially among old persons and children who have been released by the Germans and sent back to a devastated country.

Consequently, the plan of Mr. Hearst to aid these people is most worthy and should commend itself to everyone. You can count on me to do whatever I can to further the movement.

MRS. A. S. BURLESON, Washington, D. C., wife of the Postmaster-General in President Wilson's cabinet.

THE idea of each city being responsible for the rebuilding of a French town is an excellent one in my opinion. I am very sure the response to this appeal will be nation-wide. In fact, the American people will take the initiative themselves, as they have in all the other great war moves they are now sponsoring so efficiently.

France has a position in relation to America peculiarly its own. We feel differently to France than to any other country in the world. Our ties of sympathy and association are very close indeed.

MRS. HERBERT J. GURNEY, Wollaston, Mass., President Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs.

THE scheme for restoring the ruined cities and towns of France is one that should appeal to the hearts of the people of America. We are rather proud to consider ourselves a practical people, but we have, nevertheless, much of sentiment in our natures. And in the movement to bring order out of chaos —to restore the beautiful villages of France we have a great opportunity to do practical constructive work.

I hope that the women of America who have so nobly taken up their part of the burden that the war has placed upon us, will see in this movement another opportunity for service.

RARE FLOWERS, PRETTY GIRLS, AT SHOW

Great Display of Beauty in Horticultural Hall Exhibit

By CONSTANCE WILLIAMS.

Flowers, flowers, everywhere, and pretty girls, and music; one peep inside Horticultural Hall, where the annual Flower Show is being held for the benefit of the Red Cross, is enough to convince the most sceptical that spring is here, and you can't help feeling, too, that Summer has almost come.

The exhibits made this year rival those of former years in number and variety as well as in beauty. The rarest and most exquisite blossoms crowd the hall, and appeal not only to the botanist who has the technical names at the tip of his tongue, but to every lover of flowers and color as well.

Massed in corners, against backgrounds of taller plants and cedars, and Spring bulbs, dwarf fruit trees and cyclamen that would make an artist hold his breath, furnish an unprecedented display. Delicate primroses, rambler roses, heather, rare orchids and azaleas make no less beautiful exhibits, while the cut flowers sent in by the larger florists in and about Boston are arranged with much success in gay decorative effects.

Amateur displays such as those sent in by Mr. and Mrs. Lars Anderson, Mrs. C. G. Weld, Ernest B. Dane, Albert C. Burrage, Miss Margaret Rand and Miss Cornelia Warren, can hardly be ranked as amateur. For in size and color of blossoms, as well as in the number of varieties, they rival the exhibits of the most professional of florists.

But perhaps the most wonderful of all the displays is that made by Thomas Roland of Nahant. It was he who furnished all the acacia plants for the much talked of Acacia Tea Garden, three hundred in number and containing in all about thirty varieties. According to experts it is the most remarkable collection of acacia plants that has ever been brought together. It is certain that, scattered among and decorating the tables in the tea room, they are extraordinarily beautiful, and cannot fail by their colour and perfume to attract many people.

If the beauty of the tea room should fail in winning the response of those who patronize the Show, the attractions of the program which the Red Cross has arranged for each afternoon, cannot fail.

Mayor Peters opened the garden and Captain T. F. MacMahon of the Irish Guards gave a talk on "Fighting With the Tanks at the Somme, Ypres and Loos," in which he participated. And Miss Marion Sprague, daughter of E. D. Brandegee, ended the program by singing a group of English and French songs.

Among the speakers for the next three days are Lieutenant Andre Morin, of the French Military Mission to the United States; Private Arthur Mee, of the 23rd Battalion, London Regiment, and I. C. Bandinli, attaché of the Rumanian Embassy, and envoy of Queen Marie of Rumania.

Musical programs will be furnished by Mrs. A. de Menocal, Miss Mary Fay, and Mrs. Bayard Warren.

Another feature which will attract people to the tea garden is the group of young society girls, who, dressed in the regulation uniform of the Red Cross, will serve. Among the many who will give their services are the Misses Martha Thorndike, Sarah Winslow, Ruth Foster, Helen Jaques, Jane and Amey Peters, Pauline Fenno, Corina Fay, Mary Parker, Muriel Saltonstall, Marion Sprague, and Ruth Thayer.

HELD IN $5,000 FOR ATTACK ON A GIRL

Charged with attacking Miss Jennie Rogers, nineteen, of No. 66 South street, Newton, with a glass bottle, Peter Cantwell, thirty-four, of No. 9 Dutch avenue, Jamaica Plain, in $5,000 bonds when arraigned in court today.

The police say that Cantwell followed Miss Rogers from a Lake street car and accosted her on South street, a struggle ensued during which both fell to the ground. When Miss Rogers screamed, the police say Cantwell drew a whiskey bottle from his pocket and struck her on the head with it. She received several deep cuts.

A woman in a nearby house heard Miss Rogers's screams and came to the window. According to the police Cantwell then fled. He was later arrested in Newton Square and taken to the attack upon her.

When arraigned in court Cantwell pleaded not guilty and was held in $5,000 for a continued hearing next Monday.

DENY STAGE AMBITION BY MILTON BRIDE

Mr. and Mrs. Davis Hutchins of Boston and Milton social circles, who have been thrust into the limelight through mutual friend, who gave publicity to Mrs.. Hutchins' brief appearance on New York stage.

Mrs. Davis Hutchins, the Boston and Milton society bride, merely walked across the stage of a New York theatre and back again in the course of a play—just to oblige the management—and some kind friend in the audience who recognized her immediately gave her a stage career.

Such was the explanation given today by Mrs. Constantine F. Hutchins of No. 327 Beacon street, mother-in-law of the bride, for considerably dramatic publicity given her daughter-in-law.

According to Mrs. Constantine F. Hutchins, this alert friend caused the bride to be credited with a stage career that she neither desires nor possesses.

CAUSED A SENSATION.

Back Bay and Milton society fairly stopped in its tracks when news came about the dramatic aspirations of a rich young society couple from Boston.

The stories said that Mr. and Mrs. Davis Hutchins—she was formerly Miss Pauline Lambert Davis of the Milton Davises—were playing small parts in a naval and military melodrama in a theatre on Columbus Circle in New York city.

The story expanded upon the high social position of the Davis Hutchinses—which is true—and said that the two were adopting the stage as a profession.

The latter statement, according to Mr. Hutchins' mother, is flatly wrong.

Her son, she said today, is taking up stage work in an experimental way, to see if he likes it. He has a small part in this play, but has by no means decided to devote his life to the drama.

RECOGNIZED BY FRIEND

As for the bride, she is not on the stage and has no thought of a stage career for herself, according to her husband's mother. Mrs. Constantine Hutchins said on this point:

"My daughter-in-law was at the theatre one evening, and she was asked to walk across the stage and back just to help out. As a favor she did that. It so happened that she was recognized by a friend in the audience, who started a story that Mrs. Hutchins was on the stage with her husband. Both my son and his wife were indignant that such a story should have been started and should have obtained such publicity."

HARVARD AGREES TO ENTER DEBATE MARCH 22

The triangular debate between Harvard, Yale and Princeton will be held on March 22, as originally announced. The three colleges have come to a mutual agreement over the question to be discussed. Harvard, the latest objector, has been appeased with the new wording of the question and will start tonight to prepare for the meet under Coach Henry Epstein of Brooklyn. The question as it is now worded reads: "Resolved, That the Government in financing the war should obtain a larger percentage of its funds from taxes rather than from bonds."

ACCUSE BOSTON BRADLEYS OF PERSECUTION

Meriden, Ct., Man Seeks Relief From Costly Litigation Since 1899

By International News Service.

New Haven, March 14.—A plea by Attorney Benjamin Slade of this city, representing Walter H. Bradley of Meriden, was made before Judge Thomas in the U. S. Court today to have Referee in Bankruptcy C. E. Hoadley of this city end the litigation in the State courts against Walter H. Bradley and his wife of Meriden. Mr. Bradley had been declared a bankrupt and his case is now pending before the referee.

Attorney Slade in his plea before the court made an attack upon Robert and Peter Bradley, multimillion fertilizer manufacturers and Boston relatives of the Meriden Bradley. He stated that they had pursued and harassed the Meriden relative since 1899 in divers ways, and compelled him to spend between $50,000 and $60,000 to defend himself in various cases brought in the State courts, the one of these was recently decided in favor of the defendant, and others are pending.

Attorney Slade referred in court to the Boston Bradleys as "highbinders," and severely arraigned their alleged persecution of the Meriden Bradley.

Attorney Wiggin, representing the Boston Bradleys, opposed the plea and the court took the matter under advisement.

Air of Wellesley Proves Costly "Cold Cure"

Joseph J. Lee's remedy for a cold—a change of air on Wellesley College campus—cost him $50 in Dedham court today.

Joseph was arrested last Saturday for annoying the college girls. He testified that his home is in South Boston, that he had a cold and he thought a walk in the country air would benefit him.

Unfortunately, he mixed a half-pint of whiskey with the Wellesley air. He remembered nothing of the college campus.

But two of the college maids and a college seamstress identified to being annoyed by Joseph. So he was fined $50, which he paid.

Three years ago Joseph was arrested for intoxication on the same college campus, but his case was filed.

HOLBROOK MAN IS HELD FOR STABBING

Otto Phil, twenty-three, of Holbrook, appeared in the Quincy Court today and was held in $2,000 for the Grand Jury on the charge of assault with intent to murder Herbert Kuts of the same town. It was alleged that Phol stabbed Kuts, nineteen, following an alteration over

WANT BROADWAY TO PARK ST. LINE RESTORED

Cambridge Citizens Join in Protest Over Poor Elevated Service

The restoration of the Broadway, Cambridge line, to Park street was demanded by scores of residents at a hearing today before the Public Service Commission in which the service of the Boston Elevated Railway was denounced as being fifty years behind the times.

Miss Helen Pirke declared that since the Broadway line was cut off at Kendall square she had to ride home every night in a "movies sedan."

A man who spoke for Miss Elizabeth Berry and other property owners of Cambridge declared that the service was so poor that the property owners were unable to rent apartments.

"We call the present Broadway line to Kendall square the Joy line because it isn't," declared Mr. Deitz, who represented several owners of property.

Every seat in the hearing chamber was taken and the feeling of the people was shown by the hearty applause in which they applauded every time a point was scored against the Elevated road.

FORCED TO PAY FARE.

When Transportation Manager Edward Dana arouse and read a carefully prepared statement in which he declared the Broadway line is partly a street "a convenient line for a small number of persons" and said that "this ferry is in peculiar favor with an amount of transportation." there were groans all over the chamber and some jeering laughter.

Patrons declared that the new method of transferring forces them to pay an extra fare, 10 cents in all.

A letter from Mrs. Jane Hutchinson was turned over to the commission in which this aged woman of ninety years stated that the new transfer system was cut a John was obliged to change cars four times in order to attend the services at the Old South Church on Sunday. She boarded a Broadway car, had to change at Park street, again at Dudley street and then at Massachusetts avenue.

Mrs. Nelson Willis of Cambridge said she had lost 40 per cent. of her business since the Broadway line was cut off, and was suffered from rheumatism because of it.

POOR SERVICE FROM TECH.

Two Technology professors spoke for several other professors and for the students. They were Professor Goodwin and Professor Moore. Professor Goodwin declared that the students and professors were seriously considering the establishment of a shuttle service between the college and their homes in Cambridge.

Several women told of the struggle they had to get from Park street to a Broadway car or some other line at Kendall square station.

Said Mr. Hatch: "I have to go through a rum shop every night at Kendall square to board the Broadway car. The necessity for me to go home without passing through a rum shop during the period of this vated road was meeting the need of humanity it would restore the Broadway line."

NO IMPROVEMENT IN 50 YEARS.

Richard H. Hearne painted this vivid picture of the Kendall square transferral point: "Dingy, gloomy, damp, cold and dangerous."

Mr. J. Heard said the last word about Elevated service in Cambridge when he said:

"I have lived in Cambridge for fifty years. And the service there is no better today than it was fifty years ago."

HIGH PRICES BLOCK SHEEP-RAISING PLAN

High prices have stopped the plans for restocking western Massachusetts farms with sheep. The cost of sheep in Idaho, where it was expected to obtain the animals originally, has advanced to a figure that would make the venture unprofitable.

The Hampden County Improvement League was pioneer for the plan to restock Bay State farms, and has been urging the farmers in this movement for months.

$125 ROLL STOLEN AS MAN IS COUNTING IT

Alphonse White, of No. 61 Ivan street, Hudson, stopped in Adams square at 1 o'clock this morning to count his money, and now he is minus a roll of $125. He wanted to know how much was left and a man rushed up and grabbed the roll.

White gave chase, but the man with the money had too much of a start. Then White told his story to the police at Station 9.

Maid Froze Feet Waiting for Elevated Car

MRS. NELSON WILLIS of Cambridge told the Public Service Commission today that she had contracted rheumatism while waiting for Elevated cars in Cambridge.

"I can beat that," said Chairman Macleod. "A merchant in Harvard square told me he heard groans coming from his kitchen one night and found his maid suffering from frozen feet.

"She said she had frozen them while waiting for a car to take her home."

WILSON TAKES UP CASUALTY PUBLICITY

Believe President Will Sanction Plan for Complete Identification in Future

By International News Service.

Washington, March 14.—President Wilson today personally took action to prevent the publication of casualty lists with the names identified. He wrote to Assistant Secretary of War Crowell asking for all the available data in the matter and requesting that which led to the giving out of only the names.

It was understood that he had communicated with Secretary of War Baker in France asking that no lists of the dead and wounded be given out in order to prevent a system which will give the German propaganda information from which to work. The lists will not be withheld entirely, but will be given out only after the names of the dead have been communicated to the next of kin.

It is understood that the new method of transferring forces them to pay an extra fare, 10 cents in all.

ARMY OFFICER CONVICTED IN LAND FRAUD

Lieut. Clarke and Two Associates Under $5,000 Bonds; to Be Sentenced Later

Three men, one of whom is a lieutenant in the army, were found guilty in the Superior criminal court today of conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with land deals. They were placed under bonds and will be sentenced later. The men are Harold W. Jackson, Hubert A. Clarke and Joseph Tepper.

Clarke is a lieutenant in the signal corps of the United States army. Since the trial began on Feb. 25 he has been stationed at Watertown doing the uniform of his rank. He was in civilian clothes when the verdict was heard.

A bombing plane screenwriter and several aviation students were among those who sold their wares while stationed in the land deals. The government charged that they had sold land to various parts of Cape Cod, and that the value of the land which was furnished that upon the payment of a bonus they would exchange the land for property at Lynnhaven Park, New Jersey. They were also informed that the government would buy the New Jersey land.

The bonuses were paid. At the trial the government showed that the defendants never had genuine customers for the land which they sold at the Lynnhaven Park. The indictments against the men were charged conspiracy to defraud the government and many offers before they the public.

After a brief recess the jury returned with the verdict.

To date, including the casualties in the Toscania, there have been 218 American soldiers killed in action. Next to this in the list of casualties American troops are in the front line trenches in the supreme sector on the western front. It is not difficult to assume that the list will rapidly mount to the 1,000 mark. The total strength of the American army that is now in France is approximately 300,000. Any information in regard to casualties is withheld by the government.

CALL FOR 111 ARLINGTON-WINCHESTER BOYS

The draft selection board for this division, which is made up of Arlington and Winchester, issued today a call for the last 111 men it must furnish for physical examination at the Boston Municipal Town Hall Auditorium next Monday evening. If any of the men called are rejected for physical disability, the remaining men in the order in which they were called will be examined.

The men called are: Harold Francis Reardon, Medford; Joseph Lowell and Atlantic, former resident of the division.

GEN. CRONIN VISITS COUSINS IN BACK BAY

Brigadier-General Marcus D. Cronin was the guest of Dr. Timothy J. Reardon and Misses Ellen Reardon and Mary Tobin, who are his first cousins, at their home, No. 76 Commonwealth avenue, Brigadier-General Cronin is a graduate of the class of 1883 of West Point and was the first Irish boy from Worcester to graduate from the military school. He is the descendant of one of the old families of Nenry Ireland, who settled in Worcester a generation ago.

SOUTH BOSTON SLAVS HELP THE RED CROSS

The South Boston branch of the Red Cross will hold its first regular meeting Friday evening in the Municipal Building, Broadway, at 8 o'clock. The surgical dressings class will resume meetings on Monday and Friday evenings. Twenty-five dollars has been presented by the Bohemian Slavonic Club of South Boston. The money was raised at a recent dance.

PUBLIC MUST CONTROL L, SAYS EASTMAN

Says People Will Fight Extra Fares Unless They Have Voice in Management

That the people of greater Boston will never be satisfied to give the elevated a six-cent fare or any other kind of a fare unless they have public control of the property and know how the money is going to be spent, was declared by Public Service Commissioner Joseph B. Eastman at a hearing before the legislative Committee on Street Railways and Rapid Transit Affairs today.

Mr. Eastman, who is one of the foremost authorities on street railways in the United States, declared that the public control must not be the equivalent to the appointment of a public ownership board.

Under the plan recommended by the commission, the public trustees would be appointed by the Governor and the Mayor. They would step into the shoes of the Boston Elevated board of directors and would have charge of the property for benefit of the patrons, the taxpayers and the stockholders.

NEW BURDENS COMING.

Mr. Eastman said that the Elevated will soon be confronted with big financial tasks. It is going to be faced with additional burdens amounting to $1,000,000 a year during the coming year. About $750,000 of that amount will be paid out in the increases of wages and supplies, and the balance will come through the new 2 cent fare. Meanwhile taxes and the increased cost of coal, and additional burden does not include the necessity of all rails.

ALL-NIGHT LICENSES BARRED IN NEW YORK

New York, March 14.—Mayor Hylan has declared that the granting of any all night liquor licenses during the War. The announcement is made in the following letter to Police Commissioner Enright:

"After giving serious consideration to the question of granting special licenses for all night restaurants, I have concluded that it will be very unwise during the period of the war to grant licenses for the privilege of selling liquor after 1 a. m. If the privilege is granted to one, it will be difficult to refuse it to others and it would be my desire to make no exceptions during these unusual times."

THREE KILLED BY SHELL ON U. S. TRANSPORT

Washington, March 14.—Three men were killed by fragments of a shell which exploded on the U. S. transport Von Steuben, formerly the German liner Kronprinz Cecilie, the Navy Department announced. They were:

Seaman Frank Hall, Jr., Boston, second cousin of Mrs. Theodore Lyman, Jr., this address being 1251 Commonwealth avenue, Brighton.

Private Timothy Przybisl, Brighton, Mass. His father is Leon Przybisl, 1841 Dorchester avenue, Dorchester.

Private William Martin, 1017 Chadwick street, Philadelphia, Pa.

WESTON WILL WALK ON 79TH BIRTHDAY

Providence, March 14.—Edward Payson Weston, the champion long distance walker, is due here today on his regular birthday visit to his sister, Miss Mary A. Curtis of No. 193 Swan street. He will be 79 tomorrow. He writes that he will take a little walk on his birthday—about 30 miles or so—if he can get anyone to accompany him. On that night he is scheduled to address the Pen and Pencil Club. On his 71st birthday in 1912 he walked the 3,400 miles from San Francisco to New York. He walked the 3,423 miles in 77 days.

McADOO NAMES TWO FOR WATERWAYS BOARD

Washington, March 14.—Calvin Tomkins of New York and M. J. Sanders of New Orleans, have been appointed by Director-General McAdoo additional members of the Inland Waterways Commission, which is working out a co-ordinated scheme of rail and water transportation wherever feasible. Tomkins will take up immediately the development of the port facilities of New York as co-related with the railroads and the Erie barge canal.

DANIELS PLANS TO HAVE MORE DESTROYERS SOON

Washington, March 14.—Although the warship building program has been carried forward at a speed exceeding by far war preparation programs of any other nation, Secretary Daniels today announced that he proposes to increase the destroyer program by 50 per cent. Two yard officials and navy constructors today were ordered with orders to speed up the work on the construction of destroyers. The new destroyers into the water have been broken by the shipyards of the country, and the Secretary declared the war, but it is understood that the new program calls for greater speed are being considered.

LEAD PIPE STRIPPERS JAILED IN CAMBRIDGE

Four lead pipe strippers pleaded guilty on the Middlesex Superior criminal court today and were sentenced by Judge Dubuque. Judge Ford, Charles Cooper and David Madden were sent to the House of Correction for six months and one was given two years in East Cambridge jail. Cooper was arrested by a gang which had been plundering vacant houses of lead pipe for several weeks, and arrested by the Cambridge police.

FRENCH WOUNDED FUND SENDS SUPPLIES ACROSS

The New England branch of the American Fund for French Wounded, from February 16 to March 12, shipped to France relief supplies amounting in value to $15,000, according to a statement today. These supplies included:

Cotton, blankets, hot water bottles and tea bags, hospital garments, slippers, socks, sweaters, towels, handkerchiefs, layettes of various, including civilians' clothing.

U. S. Daylight Saving Plan Effective Shortly

By International News Service.

Washington, March 14.—Early passage of the daylight saving bill is assured. Chairman Pou of the House rules committee, announced on the floor that unless unanimous consent were given to consider it immediately, a special rule would be brought in.

"The daylight saving idea," said Representative Moore of Pennsylvania, in a speech, "originated in the mind of no less a philosopher than Benjamin Franklin.

"It has attracted the attention of every country who has considered how more work could be done under more sunlight."

Moore said that 1,000,000 tons of coal would be saved annually.

NEW INQUIRY IN RHODE ISLAND FARE RAISE

Order Held Up and Public Utilities Commission Is Enjoined from Action

Providence, March 14.—A committee of legislators will investigate the affairs of the street railway company, and the Public Utilities Commission was enjoined from taking any hand in the increase of fares, as a result of the State Senate conferring with the House in calling a halt in the recent order which was to go into effect April 1.

The action of the Senate is said to be a rebuke against "crooked politics" and a decision on the part of a few lobbyists to defeat the will of the people as registered at a public hearing held at the State House, during which fare-increase was objected to.

It is charged that the company has expended thousands of dollars in publicity at a time when it was argued immediate financial relief was imperative.

"Now we will have an opportunity to find out where the stakes went to," said Senator William C. Troy, who has played the company officials from the outset.

The original resolution which resulted in the appointment of a special commission which consisted of a member of the Utilities Commission, chairman of the state Tax commission and the State Bank Examiner, has been characterized as "a barefaced chicanery."

The progress to have the bill relegated to a graveyard committee, as prepared by the friends of the company, was defeated after considerable on the part of former majority party leaders who were important to their constituents to defeat the plot to tap the pocketbooks of the public.

Bonds of $10,000 were furnished by Walter D. Bragg of Wrentham, who was appointed in the Norfolk Probate Court to serve as the executor of the estate of his late father, Charles W. Bragg of Plainville, who left an estate inventoried at $3,000 in real estate and $3,000 personal property. The entire estate is left to the widow of the testator, Mrs. Sarah O. Bragg.

Y. W. C. A. FUND IS BOOSTED ABOVE $25,000 MARK

Mayor Peters Indorses the Campaign—300 Workers Working Hard

The "Smile" campaign of the Young Women's Christian Association is progressing favorably. While the total to date is more than $25,000 of the $75,000 needed, nevertheless the 300 team workers will have to pull many doorbells in the next few days to make up the balance. The money is being raised to help in the home advantages which the association offers to thousands of young girls.

One of the endorsers of the association's work and of the campaign, is Mayor Peters, who writes as follows to Miss Harriet A. Broad, general secretary of the association.

"The appeal of the Young Women's Christian Association for $75,000 to continue the work of the association is one that should meet with a general response. The association is doing a wonderful work among the young women of our city, and it should receive the support which it deserves.

"Important at all times, your work is particularly necessary at the present time owing to the conditions brought about by the war, and I trust that your appeal will meet with success."

Contributions and pledges received towards the "Smile" Campaign Fund are acknowledged by George C. Lee, of No. 41 State street, in charge of the fund:

INSTALL AUTOMATIC STAMP MACHINE IN POST OFFICE

A stamp-vending machine recently purchased by the post office department has been installed in section 18 of the Boston postoffice. These machines are so constructed that a person can purchase five one-cent stamps for five cents and five two-cent stamps for ten cents. The machine is so constructed that it rejects foreign and counterfeit coins.

SUES RAILWAY FOR ALLEGED CAR NUISANCE

The Boston & Worcester Street Railway Company has been sued for $4,000 by Elizabeth Paradis of Framingham. She alleges that the company maintains a cross-over switch near her home, and that the plaster in her house has been loosened, the framework weakened, dishes and other articles broken, and that she is greatly disturbed by the noise made by cars passing over the cross-over.

FORMER U. S. SENATOR WATSON A COLONEL

Washington, March 14.—Clarence W. Watson, former United States Senator from West Virginia, one of the leading industrialists of the country, has volunteered his services to the government for military duty and will be commissioned a colonel in the officers' reserve corps.

IST JERSEY LOAFER HAS SLEEPING ILLNESS

Glen Hill, N. J., March 14.—Tillis Speck, eighteen, goes the famous honor of being the first man arrested under the recently passed sleeping-loafing law of New Jersey. Speck was taken in custody on his mother's request. She is Mrs. Minnie Speck of 1223 Third street. The penalty for the first offence is a fine of $100 or a three months' term in the penitentiary. "Sleeping sickness" is the excuse advanced by Curtis, the police chief.

REJECTED RECRUIT WORE KAISER'S PICTURE ON ARM

Ernest Ossendorf, wearing a picture of the Kaiser tattooed on his right arm, was rejected at the Marine Corps recruiting station on Tremont Row by the examining surgeon, Dr. W. Randolph Angell.

Ossendorf was formerly fond of the Kaiser, but since the war has had a change of heart.

SAYS 101ST BOYS ACTED AS IF ON PICNIC

West Quincy Man, In Letter Before His Death, Tells of Willingness to Die

Cyril F. Morrisette of West Quincy, the first man of the old "Fighting Ninth," now the 101st Regiment, to be killed in action in France, went into battle prepared to sacrifice his life willingly for his country.

James Badiua of West Broadway, South Boston, has received a letter written by Morrisette just before the action which cost his life. It is the last letter Morrisette wrote. It reads:

"Dear Jim: I am dropping you a line to let you know that we are going into the trenches soon.

"Everybody is ready to face whatever is to happen. We do not realize what we are going to be up against. Everyone seems to act as if it were a picnic to which we are going.

"I am fine and I expect to come out pretty near the same, with the help of those who are praying for me, and with the help of God.

"I am anxious to go to the front—and there is not a bit of doubt but what I shall—to make the sacrifice which I shall never regret, no matter what happens to me.

"I will say good-bye, 'Jim,' trusting that God may spare me so that we may meet again.

"Remember me to all. Yours,
"CYRIL."

On February 27 Morrisette's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Morrisette of No. 57 Crescent street, West Quincy, received a telegram from the Adjutant-General announcing that their son had died on February 24 of wounds received in action.

Morrisette enlisted in F Company of the old Ninth on April 14, 1917, and went to France as a member of the 101st.

South End Boy Writes to Mother, Telling of Escape from Tuscania

The following letter from Walter F. Steibel, who was in the torpedoed troopship Tuscania, was received by his mother, Mrs. Steibel, at No. 15 Rutland square. It was written from Morn Hill Camp, England:

Morn Hill Camp, England,
158th Aero Squadron,
A. E. F.

"Dear Mother—We are now at Camp Morn Hill in England. It took us about thirteen days to make the trip across the ocean. I was seasick for a couple of days, but outside of that I enjoyed the trip up to the time a submarine put a hole in our boat.

"They sure don't waste any time when they are going to send you to the bottom. I know that they didn't hand me any written warning. Some of the boys lost their lives that night in the rush to get off the boat. I was lucky enough with nine others to climb down the side on a rope and get on a raft.

"We rowed around in the water for two hours and were then picked up by a torpedo boat destroyer just as our craft started to sink. I can tell you that I am content to stay on land after that night.

"After we were picked up by the torpedo boat destroyer, we were taken to an Irish camp. We lost a number of men from my company. It was too bad, seeing as we were in sight of land when we were struck.

"You should see what my company looks like now after losing their clothes. Some of them look like sailors and others like tramps. I am myself wearing a British uniform. It is a beautiful country here in England. It reminds me of the Berkshire Hills.

"I am sending you a photo. It isn't a very good one, but it will give you an idea of how we looked when we landed. It looks much like a burlesque show.

"Hoping to see you soon and eat some Boston baked beans and some of your cooking.

"Your loving son.
"WALTER F. STEIBEL."

500 CASES OF MUMPS AT U. OF V.

Epidemic Spreading Over Chittenden County; May Close University

Burlington, Vt., March 14.—The University of Vermont is fighting against a real enemy—mumps. As a result of the spread of this ailment the university has been practically put out of business, and the two units of the army affected are wondering whether gas attacks might cause a relief.

Gymnasium exhibitions, social affairs, even chapel, no longer exist at the university, and even classes will be suspended, it is expected, unless the condition abates. Nearly 500 students are suffering from mumps, and the depleted classroom groups that show up nowadays look like survivors from Ypres.

The sanitary division of the Second Cavalry, quartered at Fort Ethan Allen, four miles away, was quarantined yesterday, and Depot Company F of the Signal Corps, which is training at the university, has only a few men left in condition. The mumps are spreading over Chittenden County, and the health authorities have found no means as yet of checking the epidemic.

Bedford to Sell Town Farm.

Bedford, March 14.—At the business session of the annual town meeting, it was voted to sell the town farm, in which there are only two inmates. They will be boarded elsewhere.

GIRLS! ACT NOW! HAIR COMING OUT MEANS DANDRUFF

"Danderine" will save your hair and double its beauty at once.

Try this! Your hair gets soft, wavy, abundant and glossy at once.

Save your hair! Beautify it! It is only a matter of using a little Danderine occasionally to have a head of heavy, beautiful hair, soft, lustrous, wavy and free from dandruff. It is easy and inexpensive to have pretty, charming hair and lots of it. Just spend a few cents from the small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance; freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will, you can not find a trace of dandruff or falling hair, but real joyful surprise will be afforded when you see how your hair has grown—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp. Danderine is the only hair tonic you really sure harmless, destroyer of dandruff and relief for itchy scalp and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If want to see true hair beauty, pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in a few minutes—and what delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.—Advertisement.

Cocoanut Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the hair, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is probably one of the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.—Advertisement.

Just Try This When Hairy Growths Appear

(Modes of Today)

A smooth, hairless skin always follows the use of a paste made by mixing some water with plain powdered delatone. This paste is applied to the hairy surface and after 2 minutes, when every trace of hair will have vanished. No pain or discomfort attends the use of the delatone paste, but caution should be exercised to insure that you get real delatone.—Advertisement.

CHARGED WITH RAILROAD THEFTS; HOUSE IS BURNED

Clinton, March 14.—A few hours after Otto Neoliberd had been arrested by railroad detectives and a deputy sheriff, who thought it odd that he had 12 art squares and 140 pairs of shoes at his house in Sterling, the house burned down. The family say that the blaze started on the roof. There are no other houses near. In court today before Judge Smith he was charged with receiving property stolen from Boston & Maine cars at West Boylston, Oakdale, and was held in $600 for one week.

DROP EGAN AS SCHOOLHOUSE SUPERVISOR

Roslindale Man Suspended and Given Notice of Discharge in Thirty Days

James J. Egan, supervisor in the schoolhouse department, has been suspended for thirty days. At the end of the suspension period the Schoolhouse Commission plans to discharge him.

Egan was notified of his suspension and coming discharge in a letter from Chairman Joseph P. Lomasney of the Schoolhouse Commission, whose recent re-appointment by Mayor Peters was yesterday confirmed by the Civil Service Commission.

Egan has been drawing $2,250 a year. He lives on South street, Roslindale, and entered the service in September of 1915.

Chairman Lomasney gives as his reason in Egan's case: "Financial condition of the city and to promote economy and efficiency in the department."

The salaries of three stenographer girls, a girl bookkeeper and an inspector of heating repairs are increased by Chairman Lomasney, as follows:

Anne A. Donohue, stenographer, $1,999 to $1,399; Mary A. Kane, stenographer, $900 to $1,000; Mary Connelly, stenographer, $900 to $900; Frieda E. Riedle, bookkeeper, $800 to $900; John J. Dahlke, inspector, $1,000 to $1,500.

Dahlke has served a year as a provisional appointment and is now on the permanent list. His increase commenced February 24. The other increases go into effect tomorrow.

LEXINGTON SELECTMEN APPOINT TOWN OFFICERS

The Lexington Board of Selectmen announced the following appointments today: Superintendent and matron of the almshouse, Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. White; inspector of animals, Dr. Harry L. Alderman; inspector of buildings, William Gratto; burial agent, Arthur A. Marshall; constables, Charles E. Wheeler; superintendent of town scales, William E. Denham; sealer of weights and measures, Charles E. Hadley; supervisor of streets, Robert H. White; town physician, Dr. Henry Valentine, and keepers of lockup, Charles H. Franks and Thomas C. Buckley.

CLARK EXPLAINS PLAN OF NATIONAL TRADEMARK

Ansel R. Clark, manager of the New England branch of the United States Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, today explained to manufacturers at the Chamber of Commerce a bill in Congress providing for the adoption of a national trademark.

The bill was introduced at the instance of the Bureau, and is aimed at Germany because of the flagrant trademark abuses of that country. It is directed at the misrepresentation of the character and nature of goods by manufacturers of foreign fields.

FLOOD CAUSES $500,000 DAMAGE IN MICHIGAN

Detroit, March 14.—Telephone messages from Eaton Rapids report that the Grand River is rising at the rate of eight inches an hour and that half a million dollars' damage has been done to property there. Hall street, one of the principal thoroughfares, is under three feet of water. The Michigan Central Railway has abandoned traffic.

City Hall Appointments.

David McLuckie of No. 615 Third street, South Boston, has been appointed a fireman in the Public Works Department to fill a vacancy. He will receive $1,092 a year. Two appointments were also made in the Bridge Department. George W. Hloomfield of 55 G street, South Boston, and James P. Collins of No. 45 Green street, Charlestown, have been appointed assistant draw-tenders at $1,100 a year.

SAYS WALDRON URGED AID FOR RED CROSS

Parishioner Testifies for Vermont Pastor Charged With Sedition

Burlington, Vt., March 14.—The Rev. Clarence H. Waldron, the Windsor, Vt., minister accused of seditious utterances, suggested a collection for the Red Cross at a Christian Endeavor meeting in his church, according to testimony given at his trial today by Maurice A. Allen, president of Waldron's Bible class.

Allen also testified that Waldron had referred to the Kaiser as the "ante-Christ," not "anti-Christ," in a sermon, entitled "Is the Kaiser the Ante-Christ?"

Deane Blanchard, superintendent of the Sunday School at Waldron's Church, said that the clergyman had prayed for the American troops in the trenches, he thought as early as last July. The district attorney reminded him, however, that there were no American troops in the trenches until October, and the earliest Mr. Blanchard said that Mr. Waldron had expressed the hope that the American troops might be successful.

Blanchard said that on several occasions Waldron had told him that "Germany and the Bible could not be obeyed rather than the laws of the country, and that the response to the draft call was considering of the men themselves to determine."

Blanchard said that Mrs. Waldron was not forbidden by the trustees to hold a Liberty Loan meeting in his church. Blanchard is not one of the trustees of the church, and he said that Waldron had not spoken to him about it. He was with Blanchard when Selectman Taxbury spoke to him about such a service, and Blanchard said then that the trustees would not permit it, Blanchard testified.

The witness said that he had received copies of he pamphlet, "The Word of the Cross," from Waldron, but had burned them.

TAKES POLICE BADGE FROM COURT DEFENDANT

Pompilio Iacobucci, twenty-six, of East Boston, will no longer sport a badge of the Hingham police. Chief James, the redoubtable automobile fighter, took it away from him today. Iacobucci was arraigned in the East Boston Court charged with concealing leased goods from a Boston company, and was put on probation. Chief James said that evidence of the hearing and arrived to replevin a special officer's badge that he let Iacobucci have some years ago, when he was living in Hingham. The chief gave him the option of surrendering the badge or being arrested on a charge of larceny.

WOMAN CAUSES ARREST OF ALLEGED FOOTPADS

The quick wit of a woman caused the arrest at Rowe's wharf today of two men who are charged with assaulting James Tudel of East Boston. The men arrested are Charles W. Cross, twenty-two, of Dudley street, Roxbury, and James White, eighteen, of East Sixth street, South Boston.

The police say that while Tudel was leaving the wharf Cross and White accosted him and asked for a match. Cross then put his hand in Tudel's pocket, according to the police, and a struggle followed. They then fled and mingled with the crowd on the wharf. A woman who witnessed the incident followed Cross and White and pointed them out to two policemen.

McADOO ISSUES CALL FOR R. R. INVENTORIES

Washington, March 14.—Railways Director McAdoo today ordered all railways under government control to submit complete inventories by May 1. The order calls for a detailed listing of supplies and material, according to actual count, measurement and weight on Dec. 31.

Any railroad that has made an inventory ninety days prior to or since Dec. 31 will be permitted to submit that, with the necessary deductions or additions.

It is understood that the purpose of the inventory is to prevent any misunderstandings when the time comes for the government to return the lines.

Also if the inventories reveal a shortage of certain equipment on one line and a surplus on another temporary adjustments will be effected.

CONGRESSMAN CARTER WILL RETIRE

Needham Heights Representative Says Business Prevents His Running Again

Congressman William H. Carter of Needham Heights announced today that he will not be a candidate for re-election this Fall. He will retire at the expiration of his term next March and intends to return to business.

Mr. Carter was elected to Congress from the Thirteenth District in 1914 and 1916 on a business man's platform. In the sixty-fourth Congress he worked and spoke in behalf of the child labor law and the workingman's compensation act. He also voted in favor of bills increasing the amount of pensions to widows. He has supported the administration in its war program.

Since the United States entered the war Congressman Carter has devoted much of his time working for the welfare of the boys of the Thirteenth District in the National Army cantonments, and paid frequent visits to these places. He also fought against the abolition of rural postal routes, with a result that he had a rural route restored in New England.

In his statement announcing his intention not to run for re-election Congressman Carter says:

"The expenses of conducting my affairs in Washington, together with what I lost on account of my resigning my position with the William Carter Co., make it necessary for me to return to business.

A youthful appearance is largely a matter of health and graceful lines. Nemo Wonderlift Corsets give you both.

The Wonderlift Bandlet, in both Marvelace and Back-lace models, uplifts and holds in place the vital internal organs, gives comfortable support, reduces excess fat, produces the best lines of which your figure is capable. It is exactly adjustable to any figure, and has proved a godsend to many thousands of women, who will wear no other corset.

Twelve models, divided into two general classes:

WONDERLIFT MARVELACE

Especially designed for women who dislike a back-laced corset. The new Nemo Marvelace is adjusted at the side-front (see sketch above), but the front steels are in the exact center, where they MUST be to give proper support and poise.

PRICES—$6 and $10

WONDERLIFT BACK-LACED

Gives exactly the same hygienic-fashion service as the "Marvelace."

Models for all figures, from very slender to over-stout. All great values, and the priceless health helps cost you nothing extra.

PRICES—$6, $10 and $12

AIR MONSTER TO WIPE OUT CITIES

American Inventor Says Aerial Torpedo Will End the War in Thirty Days

By International News Service.

Philadelphia, March 14—Berlin and many other German cities can be leveled to the earth and the war won in thirty days by an aerial torpedo which he has invented, according to Lester P. Barlow, who has an office in the Land Title Building in this city.

Unsealing the lips of two of the half dozen men who know the secret so that they could corroborate his assertion, Barlow added that his new aerial torpedo is the most terribly destructive engine of warfare that the world ever has seen.

Men who have been told the secret and who have acknowledged the terrible possibilities of the invention, according to Barlow, are Brigadier-General Squier, who now is in France; Glenn Martin of Detroit, the noted aeronautical expert, and Louis Goddard of New York a banker, and Representative John Q. Tilson of Connecticut.

According to Barlow it would be possible to aim the torpedo at Berlin from behind the allied lines in France and blow the German capital to pieces.

"Six weeks ago," said Barlow, "General Squier was first shown the plans of the torpedo. It carries over half a ton of the highest explosive that can be made. It has a range of 400 to 500 miles and is positive in going to its target."

'KING ALFONSO' BACK IN N. Y. AGAIN

Louis Rodriguez, Claimant to Spanish Throne, Returned by Cuba on 13th

By International News Service.

New York, March 14—King Alfonso XIII. has arrived here from Cuba. Poor Alfy is finding the king business rather hard sledding anyway, and when Cuba wished him on New York just as the number thirteen popped upon the calendar, he was jinxed for fair—indeed, the numerals after his kingly name and the date thirteen plastered him with a double jinx.

Louis Rodriguez had a home somewhere in Spain a year ago. Then he elected himself King of Spain, christening himself Alfonso XIII., residence Paris, without bothering any local halter to fit a crown to his head. He registered at a Lisbon hotel as "Alfonso XIII. King of Spain, residence Paris."

SHIPPED TO PARIS.

Was he given the royal suite on a silver platter? He was not. Lisbon shipped him to Paris, where he declared he lived in London. New Paris hasn't been very strong on kings since the revolution, so "this your way," it said to King Alfonso, giving him a more or less gentle push in the general direction of England. But England was fearful the Zepp might get him, so he was sent back to France, whence he was re-shipped to his Hapsburg relatives in Austria.

The Hapsburgs were having troubles of their own, so he wasn't invited to a bull fight. What to do with the King they didn't know until someone dug up from his recollection the fact that Cuba had once been among his island possessions.

CUBA COLD TO KING.

Would Alfy like to visit Cuba and see how it has worried along in independence? Sure! Why not? He had plenty of time. So to Cuba he went, all unconscious of the smiles that disappeared into the sleeves of his royal relatives over the reception he should be accorded there.

Cuba didn't consider she owed anything worth mentioning to the Hapsburgs, so her senoritas did not get in a single widow's way to kiss Alfy's hand when he landed at Havana. Neither did the Cuban authorities display much excitement when he blew into a hotel and registered, giving his residence as New York.

"ALPHONSO OF N. Y."

Instead they put a kink in the King by telling him his money was ready in New York and he'd better beat it for home ere it turned.

It was New York's busy day when the King arrived, and he was promptly transshipped for a return engagement in Cuba. But Cuba rose right up on its hind legs and said something like this.

"Twice I've told you to get out of here, Mr. King, once in 1898, and again a week or so ago. Vamoose! You back to New York." And so Alfonso XIII. arrived here on the 13th. It was decided to have his luck to kingship tested by probing his visceral equipment.

SHOOTS TWO AND LEAPS FROM MOVING TRAIN

St. Louis, March 14—C. F. Harris shot and probably fatally wounded his divorced wife, Genevieve Clark, 25, and killed Mark Sawyer, 28, who was with her on a Chicago & Alton train. Harris then jumped from the train as it slowed down at West Mall, Ill. A sheriff's posse has started after him.

HUB SUFFRAGISTS TO OPEN LUCY STONE MEMORIAL WAR HOSPITAL

Start Tomorrow and Keep It Up Every Morning

Get in the habit of drinking a glass of hot water before breakfast.

We're not here long, so let's make our stay agreeable, eat the food we eat well, digest and assimilate it well, and look well. What a glorious condition to attain! Nothing is necessary if it be only to drink a glass of hot water every morning upon rising.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by ridding the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It clears out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, biliousness, stomach trouble; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a permanent crank on the subject of hour-bathing before breakfast.—Advertisement.

NUXATED IRON

"Say Doctor This Prescription Works Like Magic."

Physician Says Nuxated Iron Quickly Puts Astonishing Strength and Energy into Pale Veins of Men and Brings Roses to the Cheeks of Nervous, Run-Down Women.

Ask the first druggist you meet, healthy person, tired, nervous, what they use when they feel all run down, and see how many reply "Nuxated Iron." Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Department), New York City, says: "Nuxated Iron is one of the most remarkable tonics that has ever come to my notice. I do not know what druggists mean by secret remedies. There is nothing secret about Nuxated Iron to anybody outside the drug trade. Nuxated Iron is merely outside the Blood, makes beautiful healthy women, and strong, vigorous men. To make anybody sick or half sick or ailing, or to cause any of the many symptoms of the terrible catarrhal condition, all you have to do is to eat some of the starch preparations made with cornmeal, potatoes, rice and indigestible forms of wheat, cereals, macaroni, pills or pill dust—one or many of them.

Note: Nuxated Iron recommended above by Dr. Sullivan can be obtained from any good druggist, who is without a physician's prescription, on an absolute manufacturers' guarantee of success or money refunded.

HOME FOR WOUNDED SOLDIERS

By ELIZABETH ELLAM.

The Boston Equal Suffrage Association for Good Government is to open a convalescent hospital, to be known as the Lucy Stone Memorial Hospital, as the most recent and largest undertaking so far of its war service committee.

For the time of the war the home of Miss Alice Stone Blackwell at Dupee Hill, Dorchester, has been loaned for the care of the soldiers invalided home from France, and the hospital is to be named in honor of Lucy Stone, pioneer suffragist and mother of Miss Blackwell, now president of the Massachusetts Woman's Suffrage Association. It will be fully equipped by the society.

"The new hospital is to be under military control and has the endorsement of Brigadier-General John A. Johnston, and of Colonel Paul F. Straub, department surgeon of the Northeastern District, both men having agreed to act upon the board of control in an advisory capacity.

BOARD OF CONTROL.

"The full board of control as announced at the annual meeting of the Suffrage League in the Twentieth Century Club, includes the following: Chairman, Mrs. Edwin Hewitt; corresponding secretary, Miss Bertha Rider; treasurer, Mrs. Alfred Codman; Miss Eugenia Frothingham, Mrs. Teresa A. Crowley, Miss Eleanor Manning, Mrs. George Richmond Fearing, Jr., Mrs. Canler Gardiner, Miss Lucy Gannett, Mrs. Robert Gould Shaw, 2d, Mrs. J. Mott Hallowell, Brigadier-General Johnston, Colonel Paul F. Straub, Miss Alice Stone Blackwell and Mrs. Mary Huttheson Page.

Dr. Joseph H. Howland, superintendent of the Massachusetts General Hospital and chairman of State Hospitals for the State Council of National Defence, will also act with the board of control.

The announcement of the newest war activity of the Boston society came as a surprise to the members present, and met with the most enthusiastic applause. Mrs. Coe, who is executive chairman of all war activities of the league and also legislative chairman, is to act as chairman of the board of control and made the announcement.

At the meeting the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Mary Hutchison Page; honorary vice-presidents, Mrs. Andrew J. Peters, Mrs. Maud Wood Park; clerk, Mrs. A. Bare Comstock; treasurer, Mrs. Philip L. Saxe; directors, Mrs. Frederick P. Bagley, Mrs. Donald M. Blair, Mrs. Robert de Normandie, Miss L. W. Baker; nominating committee, Miss Fanny C. Osgood, Mrs. Frederick E. Snowling and Mrs. Lucy A. Bentley; honorary vice-president, Mrs. Charles G. Ames, Miss Evelyn G. Balch, Mrs. J. Dillinger Barnes, Miss Alice Stone Blackwell, Mrs. Louis D. Brandeis, Miss Mary P. Follett, Miss Mabel Gillespie, Mrs. H. S. Lincoln, Mrs. William S. McNary, Mrs. Louis Ames Mead, Miss Rose Standish Nichols, Miss Hannah H. Paddock, Mrs. Judith S. Smith, Miss Lucy Wheelock.

TELEGRAM TO SENATORS.

On motion of Mrs. Ida Porter Boyer, press chairman for Massachusetts, the following telegram was sent to Washington, to Senators Henry Cabot Lodge and John W. Weeks:

"The changed conditions of the current of our national life urgently demand the participation of women in industrial, professional, educational and war activities. If the ideals of our government are to be preserved the forces of democracy must continue to include women's help and women's counsel. The Boston Equal Suffrage Association therefore earnestly requests the United States Senators representing Massachusetts to vote for the Federal Amendment for Woman Suffrage in order that the Legislature of Massachusetts may be in a position to ratify such an amendment and thereby help in bringing about the complete enfranchisement of women in all the United States."

Reports of committees included war service, food conservation, emergency relief, work of the association for the past year, reports of the secretary, treasurer, the Coffee House at Ayer, community kitchen at East Boston, the farm war service, and a number of others.

Mrs. Coe, presenting the report of the legislative committee, reported that the committee had in the past year endorsed the following bills and pledged itself to work for them: The 54-hour week bills, the bill to raise from 14 to 16 the age at which minors may be employed in certain industries, bills relative to the aid given mothers with dependent children; bills regulating the issuing of employment certificates to children under sixteen years of age; bill to provide one day's rest in seven for employes of hotels and restaurants, bill adding ten additional inspectors for the Board of Labor and Industry; the minimum wage bills, and to oppose the abolishment of the Minimum Wage Commission.

Need Only Few Votes to Carry Suffrage in the U. S. Senate

Washington, March 14.—The suffrage drive is on in earnest in the Senate. Senator Calder of New York predicted that the national amendment will be adopted before the present session.

Suffrage supporters claim they need only a few votes to secure the two-thirds of the 96 ballots necessary. They claim about thirty-three of the forty-four Republicans and twenty-six to twenty-eight of the fifty-two Democrats.

During Senator Calder's speech Senators Kenyon of Iowa and Shafroth of Colorado, called attention to the work of the women voters throughout the country.

LOOK FOR OPPOSITION.

It is said the main opposition in the Senate will come from Southern Democrats. But the President is counted upon to swing these recalcitrants into line.

In some instances the States from which these Senators come are joining suffrage ranks. Petitions to Senators Tillman and Smith of South Carolina cited that hundreds of voters women in that State pleaded for the vote.

Will H. Hays, the new chairman of the Republican National Committee, is here today. He is expected to organize the suffrage drive in the Senate. The Republicans will use the suffrage bill as one of their weapons against their political opponents with an eye open in 1920. Suffragists have not been active about the Capitol lately.

"There are those who claim that this is no time to consider the question of women suffrage," said Senator Calder. "But the question of suffrage at this time is not only a right question, but it is a question of war-time efficiency for a country struggling in the throes of this great world war.

"There are those who say, too, that women do not want the vote; that when they have the vote they do not use it.

"The fact that women do want the vote was proven by the signatures of the 1,023,500 women in the possession of the New York woman suffrage party.

WOMEN USE VOTE.

"That women who have the vote use it is evidenced by the fact that in no suffrage State has suffrage ever been regretted or revoked after it was once given to women; that in every suffrage State labor legislation has advanced, not in tremendous, overwhelming strides, perhaps, but yet with a steady and parallel growth in each State, which shows that the women who have the vote use it to the best of their ability, use it to help conditions in the home, in the school, on the morals in the communities, in these developments of community life which are particularly women's sphere.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes —Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which causes a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in the system.

If you have a pale face, sallow skin, dull eyes, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of people of all ages men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep in the pink of condition. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.—Advertisement.

Women Needed in Senate, Declares Miss Martin

By ANNE MARTIN,

Legislative Chairman of the National Woman's Party, who has just announced her candidacy for the United States Senate from Nevada.

I AM deeply gratified by the support I am receiving from the women of Massachusetts at the announcement of my candidacy. While I am deeply concerned with certain problems in my own State, I feel that the question of having women in the Senate at this time is a National one, and therefore am doubly glad of support from the women of other States than my own.

I am announcing my candidacy for the Senate now because I feel that the end of the long fight for the Federal suffrage amendment is in sight. Suffrage has become an issue which neither party can afford to neglect, and since it has become a political issue its speedy success is assured.

The next logical step after the women of the nation are enfranchised, seems to me to have women in our highest legislative body, for their political freedom will not be complete until they are recognized in every branch of government. That women are taking a larger and larger part in government today is an evolutionary process that must not be retarded. In the successful solution of the problems of war, such as the mobilization of all our National resources, food conservation, increased production, organization for nation-wide thrift and economy, women are peculiarly fitted to help at this time.

The peace which will follow this war will bring with it the social and industrial reorganization of the world, which cannot be successfully accomplished without the constructive co-operation of women. It is important, too, that the nation at this time should reaffirm its faith in representative government and in the power of self-government of all the people, by having a woman in its highest legislative body. It is therefore a matter of justice to the nation as well as to the women themselves that their viewpoint should be represented in the highest law-making body in the country.

If I am elected to the Senate I shall give particular attention to matters of industrial and social welfare—the development of the land in the interests of the people, the conservation of water, the elimination of the long established railway discrimination against Nevada in freight rates, and the protection by Federal agencies of seasonal farm labor, and its transfer from region to region in the interest of both the farmer and laborer. These problems I have long studied in Nevada, and through them I believe I could at this time serve my State and nation.

I believe in the general principle of the public ownership of public utilities, and the public ownership of railroads seems to me the logical next step in this direction.

Finally, if I am, I shall try to make good my claim that women in government will benefit all groups of citizens, and I shall endeavor to voice and effectively realize the deep desire of the women, to give their best service toward the thing for which all the allied countries pray—the successful ending of the war by the consummation of a just and lasting peace.

HYLAN DEMANDS NUDE DANCING BE STOPPED

Warns Police Commissioner Metropolitan's Patrons Must Not Be Corrupted

New York, March 14. — The late Mayor Gaynor, whose letters upon various subjects brought him fame, at his best never penned an epistle more human in its broad interest than the following, written by Mayor Hylan to Police Commissioner Enright:

"Inclosed find copy of letter from a citizen, also clippings with reference to a nude dancer who recently appeared at the Metropolitan Opera House.

"This young woman claimed to have appeared in the name of art, but most people believed it was an indecent performance.

"I am amazed to think that the trustees of the Metropolitan Opera House and the subscribers to that institution would tolerate such an exhibition. I wish you would see to it that no more such exhibitions are staged at the Metropolitan or in any other theatre in the city.

"The same occurred in a theatre patronized by plain people some of those good people who patronize the Metropolitan would consider the town wide open and would indignantly protest.

"I want you to see to it that the good people who attend the Metropolitan Opera House do not have their morals corrupted."

Miss Helen Moller, who conducts a so-called "temple" where she translates "nature dancing" to pupils, gave an interpretation of Rimsky-Kurs' "Polar Dreams" at the Metropolitan Opera House at a matinee February 25. She was described as having danced in nature's garb, covered but not unrevealed by a gauze veil.

SENATOR LODGE IS OPPOSED TO SUFFRAGE

Worcester, March 14. — Senator Henry Cabot Lodge is opposed to woman suffrage.

The Bay State Senator so declared himself in a letter to the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of Quinsigamond Methodist Church, replying to a message asking his support of the Susan B. Anthony amendment. He says:

"I have received your letter and have read what you say in favor of the so-called Anthony amendment. As a result of careful study of the problem I am opposed to woman suffrage, and in view of this fact it will be impossible for me to support a constitutional amendment with this object."

"Very, Very Proud of Archie," Says Mrs. Roosevelt

"We are very, very proud of him and of the part he is taking," said Mrs. Grace S. Roosevelt, when informed of the sounding and decoration of her husband, Captain Archibald B. Roosevelt, now in France.

Mrs. Roosevelt, with her baby of a few weeks, is living with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas St. John Lockwood of No. 111 Bay State road, during her husband's absence. The captain has just learned of the child's birth.

"We know he will do his duty at any cost," she continued. "There really isn't any more to be said, as we have received no particulars as yet. From the reports from Washington, however, there does not seem to be anything to worry about. We have had no direct news and I do not know how serious his injuries are."

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS

FULLERTON HAS HUGO BEZDEK FIGURED PROPER PARTY TO PROSPER AS PIRATE CHIEF

By HUGH S. FULLERTON.

PITTSBURGH PIRATES—In military service, four; liable to call, three.

Pittsburgh is an everything-to-gain, nothing-to-lose club. Its owner is, beyond doubt, the shrewdest student and the closest watcher of young players in the country, not excepting Connie Mack.

Of recent years the owner, Mr. Dreyfuss, has become peevish and has quarrelled with managers, quarrelled with other owners and helped in the demolition of a once strong club by his methods.

Dreyfuss has heavy burdens. He has taken a heroic and wonderful step to rebuild a club. He is revolutionary. Instead of buying stars, hiring miracle men and such things, he has built up a club of young fellows who are expected to work and has cleaned out all others.

He has had that theory for some time and could not get managers to agree with him, so he hired a manager who would. He hired a fellow who never managed a ball club; who played very little ball, even at college, who never was even in a minor league—but he got a man who is with him in his theories.

BEZDEK OF RIGHT SORT.

Dreyfuss went entirely out of baseball and hired a big fellow named Hugo Bezdek to manage his ball club. Bezdek is a bark of the Yarda follow from Chicago who worked his way through the University of Chicago; who boxed, wrestled and roughed it; who became a star football player, a bull-dog line-plunger, and a fair ball player. He has the fighting spirit; he can lick half the team, if he has to do it, and he has theories.

The more one sees of Bezdek the better one likes him. He is a free-thinking fellow; a good fellow, a rough one and a square one. He has studied baseball. He can make a corking speech; he can fight hard with and for anyone who is square with him and doing his best. He will go to Hell. He is the kind of a man ball players admire.

He doesn't give a darn for precedent, but he is a glutton for work and insists upon his men working—which will help.

He has material. Just how he will shape up the team is uncertain, but we are going to have a club playing the highest type of aggressive college baseball this Summer.

The Pittsburgh team escaped easily in the war—thus far—and is not liable to lose many, even if every man liable to be called is summoned to the colors.

The team, as it now lines up, has a fast and clever outfield, a much strengthened infield, an interrogation point for a catching staff and one whale of a pitcher supported by several skilled hurlers.

COOPER STAR OF STAFF.

The anchor of the defensive team will be, of course, Wilbur Cooper, who, with last season's hopeless club, won seventeen and lost ten games. Bob Steele and Earl Hamilton furnish the rest of the left-handedness.

The acquisition of Hamilton is an experiment of the highest order; a gamble. He was a great pitcher who went back. It is said he came back last season in the American Association, and, if he has, Pittsburgh has the strongest left-handed combination in the league; a combination that will especially trouble Chicago, New York and Cincinnati.

A tremendous offensive has been made to strengthen the weak catching staff and there are six men on the list.

The outfield will be Carey, Slagle and King, with Jackson, Bigbee and old Bustem Billy Hinchman as reserves, Hinchman serving largely as pinch hitter.

The infield is tremendously strengthened by the acquisition of George Cutshaw from Brooklyn, Saier or Holke at first, Pitt Smith or Stumpf and Boeckel to fill the other two jobs. There also is Chase, and whoever works hardest gets the jobs.

Not a bad club on paper at all, although vastly lacking in hitting power, much stronger than one would imagine, provided Bezdek gets it to working together. I'm not certain how strong it will be in the final figures, but I'll chance a bet right now that it beats some club next.

ATLANTA SLUGGER IS LANDED BY MR. MACK

Atlanta, Ga., March 14—Jack Mostil, Atlanta's heavy-hitting first baseman, has been traded to Connie Mack. He clouted at a .330 clip last year. The announcement was made by Manager Frank, who is getting catcher Picinich and outfielder Strunk.

Outfielder Acosta, last year with Baltimore, has been sold by the Cubs to the locals from the Washington club.

PIPP AND GILHOOLEY ENTER CAMP HUGGINS

Macon, Ga., March 14—First baseman Walter Pipp, Outfielder Frank Gilhooley and Catcher Hannah, an importation from the Pacific Coast, have joined the New York Yankees' training camp. Pipp is a draft of the draft, but does not expect to be called out until next Fall.

O'MARA AWAY FOR SPA; HI MYERS GETS IN LINE

New York, March 14.—Twenty-two Dodgers will train for fifteen days at Hot Springs, Ark., before the curtain is raised on the big show. There will be nine pitchers in the party, with O'Mara, shortstop, has left for the Arkansas Spa. Hi Myers, outfielder, has signed his contract.

Cannefax Off in Front

Chicago, March 14.—Robert Cannefax of St. Louis is off in front of Augie Kleckhefer, new three-cushion billiard champion, in their three-nights' match for the title, 50-42

Fullerton Is Noted for Picking Winners

Hugh Fullerton's Spring dope on the major league teams is considered one of the pre-season's big features by the followers of the pastimes.

A year ago this time the famous writer and statistician sized up the teams with uncanny accuracy.

He picked the winners in each league, and with one or two minor exceptions named the order of the October finishes.

In this annual Spring prophecy Fullerton will show the strength and weakness of each club in the two big circuits, and will predict in cold figures the final standing of each team.

Fullerton's articles will be published in the AMERICAN daily.

WALLIE SCHANG DOES DUTY AT THIRD BAG

By HENRY L. DAILY.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 14.—It became apparent today that Schang is covering the third bag, that the question as to who will play the difficult corner for the Red Sox this season is still up in the air.

When the squad reached Majestic Park, Manager Barrow sent Wallie to the far station, Evers to the keystone sack and Babe Ruth covered the initial bag.

The practice was quick and snappy, with Dan Howley laying down bunts and smashing out hot grounders and line drives to Schang in order to acquaint him with the lay of the land in the vicinity of Larry Gardner's old position.

It would seem from this move that it is not a sure thing that McInnis will play third base, Barrow, however, is willing to make any move that will solve the problem at this corner of the diamond.

Schang, of course, is a catcher, but he also played third base for Philadelphia last year and in eleven games at the position he fielded for .973. He also played in the outfield, his percentage of 1.000 in seven games, Schang's batting average last year was .285.

Evers played second in his old-time form, fairly burning up the ground gathering in line drives and picking grounders out of the grass and also legged the ball about in great style.

EVERS AT HIS BEST.

Henry (Hank) Eibel, Richmond rookie, arrived a few days late, and with a badly sprained ankle. Eibel met with the accident at his home in Brooklyn. His leg is black and blue almost to the knee and it will be several weeks before he is able to work.

The weather is ideal; it has been above eighty since the Sox arrived. This gives the pitchers the chance to loosen up without fear of suffering from any setbacks.

Manager Barrow has decided not to take the boys over the mountain route to Majestic Park any more. It is a strenuous hike over and back.

The boys took turns at the bat and in the outfield. The infield remained almost stationary, except a change now and then at first. With Pitcher McCabe at short, Evers at second and Schang at third, it showed a fast working machine for an early practice.

LOOKING FOR FISHER.

With the expected arrival of Shortstop Bob Fisher, who played with Rochester last year, and McInnis no later than Saturday, several changes in the line up will be made.

The Sox play their first game for 1918 next Sunday, when they meet the Brooklyn Dodgers in an exhibition contest at Majestic Park.

Ruth is in swell form, Wykoff is rounding into shape gradually and Joe Bush and Carl Mays are loosening by degrees. During practice a stiff southwest wind blew up which caused the pitchers to don their sweaters so as not to get cold in their arms.

Barrow keeps them right on the job when at the field. About an hour's work, a rest of ten minutes, and then back to the field until he calls "time."

There is no slacking among the boys; all are keen to get into shape. Today the practice time was to be lengthened and a more strenuous program was outlined.

When the regulars reach here they will find a crowd of well-seasoned ball players, already almost in shape for the Big Show.

JOHN HENRY IN BRAVE PARTY MIAMI BOUND

By NICK FLATLEY.

Savannah, Ga., March 14.—This particular section of South-bound Braves, which departed from Boston Tuesday night, has now swept into the heat belt, and sometime tomorrow morning will land in Miami and get busy.

The party landed in Washington yesterday afternoon; stopped over long enough to pick up Catcher John Henry, and then got going again. At Richmond, Fred Bailey, one of the outfield troupe, got aboard. Red Smith is expected to join us this evening at Jacksonville.

Young Nealon, who was supposed to catch on with the pilgrimage at Philadelphia yesterday, failed to show and nothing has been heard from him.

Where it had been announced that Jimmy Smith of the Giants would meet our outfit at Washington and Hartford, which he lay of the land in the vicinity of Larry Gardner's old position.

It would seem from this move that it is not a sure thing that McInnis will play third base, Barrow, however, is willing to make any move that will solve the problem at this corner of the diamond.

"JOHN L." AS I KNEW HIM"

BY JAMES J. CORBETT.

This is the twenty-second chapter of a series which James J. Corbett is writing on "John L. as I Knew Him." It relates many heretofore unpublished incidents in the life of the great warrior. The next installment will appear tomorrow.

The thought of meeting John L. Sullivan in a battle for the heavyweight championship never entered my mind until a trifle more than a year before the contest was staged. John L. had no greater admirer than my father. He regarded the mighty Bostonian as an unbeatable warrior. And through all the early part of my career as a boxer I shared this belief.

But Fate works strange pranks.

Other chapters told how I first saw John L. in San Francisco when I was seventeen, against Kilrain, trailed him through the streets for hours. That was in 1884.

Two years later I saw him again, and my reverence for him was increased by his quick and decisive victory over Paddy Ryan in the California city.

And then John L. went past leaving me disappointed because I had not been fortunate enough to be among those who shook his hand.

Through 1886, 1887 and 1888 I worked as few kids ever worked to perfect myself as a boxer. But the thought of meeting a champion some day never entered my mind until long afterward.

WANTED TO BECOME AN ACTOR.

It wasn't until 1889, when I whipped Joe Choynski in our hard-fought Bencia Bay barge fight, that I decided to become a professional.

My folks had other ambitions for me. They wanted me to stick to my job in the bank, and become "a great banker some day."

I also had a certain yearning of my own to become an actor. I had made a fair success in amateur theatricals in San Francisco, and many of my friends predicted a glowing future for me in that profession.

But the victory over the wonderful Choynski convinced me that I had within me the makings of a successful ring warrior.

I was fast and shifty in those days and was credited with introducing many new tricks into the ring. Those traits made me talked about in my home town, and several victories over some fairly good fighters of that era finally won for me a chance to go six rounds with Jake Kilrain, who figured I was something of an over-rated "lemon" and that he would have an easy time beating me.

But Kilrain got a rude awakening. Before I left for New Orleans to fight Kilrain on February 18, 1890, Jack Dempsey, who had boxed with me and also had seen Kilrain in action, made this prediction:

"Kilrain never will lay a glove on Corbett."

And Dempsey's prediction came true.

TOOK UP JACKSON DEFI.

My victory over Kilrain was the means of giving to me my first nation-wide fame. The fans and writers throughout the country decided that a youngster who could outpoint the man who had forced John L. Sullivan into seventy-six rounds of fighting seven months before had more than fair ability.

It was some months later when my action in accepting a match with Peter Jackson surprised the sporting world.

About 90 per cent. of the fight enthusiasts throughout the country figured I was a "young fool" to try conclusions with the great negro.

But by that time I had gained more than the average confidence in my own ability, and figured that I had at least an even chance of whipping the man that some had declared John L. Sullivan was afraid to meet.

In January, 1890, which was after the Jackson match had been made, I went to New Orleans again. The surface purpose was to witness the Jack Dempsey-Bob Fitzsimmons fight on January 14.

But the underlying idea was to give me an excuse to stop over in Chicago, where John L. Sullivan was showing at the time.

I had a message for the champion and I felt the time was ripe to deliver it.

STATE SCHOOLS TO TROT OUT ALL CRACKS

An extremely busy group is the committee constructing the entry list for the State schoolboy meet at the East Armory Saturday. From all over the State entries are pouring into headquarters.

The state-wide contest is an interesting one, and from the present outlook is sure to be a huge success, so much so, it still doubtless be made a permanent affair.

Schoolboys in Lynn, Brockton, Holyoke and the other cities have always envied the Boston youths and have only been able to compete against them when a dual meet was arranged.

The entry list for the intermediate hurdles and pole vault gives out today by the committee, follows:

Hurdles — Salter, Chase, Rask, Lombard.

Pole Vault — Sweeney, Sullivan, Burke, Bell, Meredith, Dennen, Sullivan, Burke, Johnson, Sullivan, Sullivan, Sullivan, Dolan, Dolan, Quinn, Hamrock, Hamrock, Tarrolo, Dunn, Wang, Kaines.

Breezy Athletic Chat.

LARGE entries are coming in for the meet are coming from the out-of-town schools.

CUMMINGS, the runner, will be the favorite to win both indoor and outdoor some of the suburban teams will press each other hard.

CAPTAIN BABE MAGNOLA of Roxbury is a worthy choice for captain, but he will be missed as he has graduated. Noonan of East Boston is making those at the top sit up and take notice.

YOKEL DEFENDS MAT TITLE TONIGHT

Mike Yokel, looking and feeling fine, arrived in Boston this morning, certain that when he leaves the stage tonight he will be entitled to wear a belt as evidence of the world's middleweight wrestling championship. Yokel and Jack Johnson, fresh whirlwind will be on deck immediately mat.

The sturdy Westerner has trained hard for the battle, and so has the titleholder. Both are in edge and there is no reason to expect that the match will go the limit. Johnson has been in many a hard battle, and will go a finish fight if he feels out of them.

In the preliminary, Nick Bessios and Jack Fulton will meet in a fast bout.

Both are fast amateurs in Greater Boston have seen in their entries while the delegation from the Lynn Y. M. C. A. promises to be the biggest ever known.

N. E. 116-POUND FISTIC CROWN IS AT STAKE

Paul Demers and Paddy Owens in Trim for Title Battle—Donovan Wants Action

By RINGSIDE

Paul Demers and Paddy Owens have posted forfeits with the AMERICAN for their championship bout at the Commercial A. C. tomorrow night, both boys agreeing to make 116 pounds, ringside.

The question of who's who in the New England bantamweight class has been handing fire for a long time, and as these two boys appear the best of the present crop, the winner will be recognized as the premier.

Demers has a shade in the records, but even so, it is confidently said by the members and many Cambridge fans are of the same opinion, as Paddy has been showing up well in his bouts over there.

These other boys will make up the card for the show: Soldiers Dave Cowen of Malden will meet Young Wilson of Somerville, who should prove one busy session. This is their second meeting. The first bout was a corker, and the return promises to be equally as fast. Powers mittled to the award on the first occasion, but George Holmes of Chelsea and Jack Wilson of Malden will be now going to bigger things with Jimmie Panama Clancy as their boss. Clancy is a newcomer locally but generally rated a live wire.

Young Kinsey of Somerville battles Jimmy Gray of Chelsea in the opening bout, which is slated for eight rounds, as both are good boxers and experienced in fair sprinkling of the art of mauling. Gray is the favorite in the betting, but there are many fans who are interested in this bout to watch the club partner.

Fred Fulton and Mike Collins, his sparring partner, are due at the City Hall gymnasium this morning, and Fulton and Collins are almost bound to go a few rounds, as neither should put on much of a load.

However the July 4 battle is the big one, and the winner will make a match at Fulton against Willard, with Dempsey a long shot for the Fred's place coming in the event he should turn his bonnet Southward in their direction.

George Perry, former star in the old baseball circles in the "boiling-to-do" comprise some of the boxing stars who will appear at the stable of fighters, the referee and matchmaker of the new Tuesday club, not a mention several other little side issues.

George has among his battlers one that he says will be a world beater, but just show where Peter was filling in as the sparring mate for the big James Jeffries, and you'll get a few hints to back into his record.

The bout with Sweeney has him guessing, for as George says, "Jesse certainly knocked Sweeney out three times, but I'll be darned if he can count him out—I gave him a show right here in Boston."

The only thing to make this yarn complete was to have Sweeney put the knock on Jones.

McCue Boxing Bill Not Expected to Be Kayoed by New York State Solons

Albany, N. Y., March 14.—Boxing tried to stage a come-back before the Assembly Judiciary Committee, in a hearing on the Mullen-Hoey bill, when Manager Mike McCue, former boxer, who would bring the sport within the law if it is passed, was heard by the committee only last year by the Legislature.

At the conclusion of the hearing there was every indication the sport had not a partial success. The bill had many supporters and nobody appeared to argue against it. There was no one to argue for it, they all could not be heard.

The measure would provide to purchase of tickets by soldiers and sailors in the training camps. The bill provides that the duties of the boxing commissioners, one of the gross receipts of all contests are to go to the state.

Navy Five Wins at Lowell

Lowell, March 14.—Navy and basketball five won its game from the Lowell All-Stars, 36-23. Green was the star of the combat.

Keeping Faith with the Public No. 3

Better days are coming, with the aid of America's strong arm. For those better days we want to keep our big army of workers. That can be done by maintaining at whatever cost the vast volume of sales gained by the TOTEM as a 5c cigar. Therefore we declare, for the present at least, to join the universal game of price-raising. The TOTEM cigar still sells at 5c. The dealers' profit is protected. We carry the burden with good cheer. Keeping faith with the public is merely one way of DOING OUR BIT.

Jupiter Low in the Sky

WE shall not have Jupiter conspicuously adorning the evening skies after the Spring months. He is now seen low in the west about 9 p. m., between the Pleiades and Hyades, in Taurus, and he sets in the northwest about 11:30.

This Day in History

THIS is the anniversary of the famous victory of Henry IV. of France at Ivry in 1590, in which he defeated the leaders of the Catholic League. Henry, calling on his Huguenot armyto follow his white plume, added to his own name forvalor and generalship.

MAKING YOUR JOB PAY

Learn How to Talk; Not Too Much, but Intelligently

By Beatrice Fairfax

"JUST what do you mean by that last statement, sir?"

Jones stopped and looked in amazement at the customer he was trying to interest in his course on "Salesmanship." He had been baffled in the very midst of his sales-talk, the talk he had learned so thoroughly that he could recite it fluently and with theatrical impressiveness even while he was thinking about his coal bill or his need of a new Spring suit.

"What do I mean?" asked Jones. "Why, what I said, of course. It is simple; in fact it is quite plain. All life is a game of selling, and the ratio of selling your goods to your prospect is directly as your ability to sell your own personality plus the merit of your goods."

"That is what you said before. What do you mean by it?" persisted the customer.

Again Jones assured him that it was all quite simple and that he meant exactly what he said. And Jones does not suspect that he failed to make a sale because he had never learned how to talk.

Talking is not matter of reciting glibly a series of interesting statements. Talking is a matter of presenting your statements so they will appeal to the person to whom you are directing them.

Quite Simple

When a man asks you to explain and you assure him it is all quite simple, you are inferring that he is not wise enough to comprehend a plain statement of fact. And you are antagonizing by your words instead of making friends through them.

Now, conversation—be it business or social talk—does not come by the grace of Heaven. It results from hard work, from developing the "gift of gab."

To talk well you must, first of all have a pleasant voice that does not rasp or irritate the person to whom it is addressed.

Then you must have something interesting to talk about and a real knowledge of the thing you wish to present.

Furthermore, you must have words in which to dress your subject vividly and vitally. A knowledge of grammar and of that fluent and charming thing, language, is so completely essential that it seems strange everyone does not know how worth while acquiring is a mastery of English.

And, finally, there is a knowledge and understanding of human nature. This means you must study the person to whom you are going to talk and modify your conversation to suit his attitude and interests.

Read Good Books

By reading good books, by listening to the conversation of your superiors, and by attending critically to your own talk you will find yourself growing in ability to express yourself.

Never mind how difficult this task I have set you sounds. You cannot have a job half or even one-tenth as difficult as was that of Demosthenes, the great Athenian orator.

Demosthenes stuttered, and yet he became an orator. He betook himself to the seaside. Then he put small pebbles in his mouth and with these to force him to speak slowly and carefully and to work over his enunciation, he talked against the roll and boom of the great waves. When he had learned to bring out his voice so sonorously that it drowned the sea and to speak with such painstaking precision that he could manage his stammering tongue and the pebbles upon it, Demosthenes no longer stuttered. And his fame as an orator has come down the centuries.

Now, why should not you learn to talk?

HOW TO JUDGE A WOMAN BY HER HAIR

There is real common sense in just noticing whether the hair is well kept to judge of a woman's neatness, or good taste. If you are one of the few who try to make the most of your hair, remember that it is not advisable to wash the hair with any cleanser made for all purposes, but always use some good shampoo. You can clean the very best by getting some Castilloxi from your druggist, dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. Dandruff, excess oil, and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. Your hair will be so fluffy that it will look much heavier than it is. Its luster and softness will also delight you, while the stimulated scalp gains the health which insures hair growth.—Advertisement.

"I Should Be Afraid"

By NELL BRINKLEY

Once Betty America was afraid of mice

Now she isn't afraid of even a submarine—Note the excellent reason why:

ONCE upon a day young Miss Betty America was afraid of mice! She would fall to screaming faintly, grow pale as china, begin climbing valiantly wherever she happened to be, her tiny black shoes beat the air furiously, her black curls flew in cloudy rings, her hooped skirts swayed madly, the ruffles of her snowy pantalettes stiffened with fright—if just one tiny atom of a harmless gray-velvet mouse sat up in slight and stroked his whiskers. NOW, she isn't afraid of even the boasted creature that Germany whispers hoarsely of and paints with horror—the horrible SUBMARINE! Not because of suffrage, and new women, and war-brownies, and the valiancy of Red Cross labor, and belts. That isn't why the seagoing monster of Germany's pride and shame is less than a mouse to her. Not why she snaps her little fingers at its menace. LOOK WHY! "I should be afraid, with the blue bulk of the boy in rakish cap, whipping ankles, polished black shoes, the shine of the light on the sea in his eyes, his head bravely set on his shoulders, the heart of a lion under his blue blouse, between it and me! In the lea of his sea-blue shoulder I smile; around the circle of his steel arm, sheathed in the deceiving softness of blue cloth, I snap my fingers at it, snick-snack! It looks no bigger nor more horrid than it is here drawn, to me, from where I be in safety behind the boy of our own navy—clever, merry, dogged, high-hearted, sea-blue Jack!"—NELL BRINKLEY.

Puss in Boots Jr.

By David Cory

WELL, after Puss left Mr. Ulysses safe at home with Mrs. Ulysses, he travelled on by himself, and after a while he came to a high rock on which crouched a huge monster with the body of a lion and the head of a woman. But little Puss Junior didn't know it was the Sphinx, who for years and years stopped every traveler who went by and asked him a riddle. And if he couldn't answer it she would throw him over the rock.

Now, as soon as she saw little Puss Junior drawing near she said to herself: "I won't ask him the same hard riddle I've asked every traveler." So she scratched her ear with her big, furry foot and thought and thought. And just as Puss reached her she found the riddle she wanted to ask.

"Hello, there, little Puss," she cried. "Tell me the answer to this: What is it goes on four wheels in morning, two at noon and three in the evening?"

"Oh, dear me," said little Puss to himself, and he scratched his ear and looked at the great big Sphinx. And didn't she look like a big immense cat until you saw her face.

"Hurry up," she cried. "You can have only three minutes to guess." So Puss thought and thought and he and he guessed. And before he answers I'll give you three minutes to guess, so please don't read any further till you look at the clock and try. And now that the time is up, I'll tell you what Puss said.

"I think I have the right answer, Mrs. Sphinx," said little Puss. "It's baby carriage in the morning, bicycle in noon, and an invalid chair in the evening."

And when that Lion Lady heard that she almost fell off her rock, she was so surprised.

"Right you are, little cat," she cried. "You are the first one who has ever guesses my riddle," and then she lashed her tail, she was so mortified and angry. "I never thought a little Pussy Cat could answer that riddle." And then she began to sing:

"For years and years I've asked each man
Who traveled by my throne,
And each has failed, while you, dear Puss,
Have guessed it all alone.
So you may go upon your way,
But tell no one, I pray,
For if you do the day you'll rue
You gave the Sphinx away."

And if you wait until the next story I'll tell you more about little Puss Junior, that is if you'll promise to telephone the Sphinx and tell her just what I've told you.

Royal Milliners

It has long been a well-known fact that Queen Mary has often trimmed her own hats, as also has Queen Maud of Norway.

Princess Patricia of Connaught, too, is a clever milliner, and her sister, the Crown Princess of Sweden, has often looked charming in hats which she has trimmed herself.

There are many society women who are experts with their needles, and who can turn an ugly "shape" into a beautiful "creation." One of these is Lady Cheylesmore, and she has several times won prizes at hat-trimming competitions.

Lady Maitland, too, is a clever milliner, and she once organized a sale of hats, every one made or trimmed by her own hands. Lady Hervey-Bathurst has trimmed many pretty hats, and before her marriage she had a millinery shop in Sloane Square. Mrs. Arthur Wright is another society woman who could make a small fortune as a milliner.

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

By Beatrice Fairfax

A Case for Your Own Aid

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

What would you do if you were 15? I am well educated, pretty, and have unusual opportunities for meeting men. Yet I have never made a hit. I think I am just naturally stupid. I was not a success socially, and now that we have lost our money and I am a stenographer at $15 per, I do not feel that I am a success in business either—it is only that I am working for an old friend of the family's or I would not be able to "hold down the job." I am one of those foolish women that have dabbled in many things, but have never stuck to any one thing long enough to make a success of it. Though I look much younger, I am thirty-one.

"OLD MAID."

YOUR estimate of yourself is not a very enthusiastic one, is it? Can't you find something in yourself to admire and cultivate? With a good education and good looks and enough critical faculty to write about yourself as you have, surely you ought to be able to treat your own case as well as to diagnose it. Because you have spent most of your life "dabbling" need not prevent you from now settling down and mastering one thing. Why not stop thinking about yourself and your shortcomings and give your entire attention to your present position and its opportunities? Perhaps it hasn't any! Well, then, in a world as teeming with chances for women as is our present little old globe, I suggest that you look around for the place into which you will fit! ❁

The Hidden Hand

A Wonderful Serial by ARTHUR B. REEVE

EPISODE 13.

"The Tiger's Jaws"

Copyright, 1917, Star Company.

"BELIEVE this?" laughed Doris happily, running over to her and throwing her arms about her neck affectionately, while Ramsay stood behind smiling down with kindly contempt at the cards.

"I'm telling fortunes by cards," returned Martha, "and I see a wedding," she adding smiling knowingly at them, though Ramsay waved the cards aside, in favor of exchanging a glance with Doris. "Come, sit down and let me finish."

"Oh!" exclaimed Martha as the Queen of Spades fell between the Jack of Diamonds and the Queen of Hearts. "The Queen of Spades is coming between the lovers."

Doris laughed and looked at Ramsay. The thought of Verda was in both minds. With a frown Ramsay reached for the cards and jumbled them, Doris still laughing gleefully.

"Really," he apologized, with a glance at his watch, "I must go—out at the Secret Service Chief's office in half an hour—barely time to get there now. Good night, dear," he lingered as he prolonged each precious moment at the door.

Doris closed the door and came back to Martha. Both laughed as they looked at the cards. But was there a little apprehension?

Not ten minutes later there was a knock on the door and Martha opened it with the startled exclamation, "Verda!"

Hesitatingly she admitted her. Verda moved to Doris, and without a word, as she bowed her head, began to cry softly. Instantly Martha's simple soul was touched, but Doris looked down questioningly as Verda finally raised her face.

"Will you let me stay here, just tonight?" she pleaded pathetically. "I will go tomorrow—forever."

She Wins Her Request

Doris was too affected to refuse. How could she know that Verda's false suicide note and the attack by the Hidden Hand were not mere chance?

"I forgive you," she murmured. "Your act was only a foolish one."

Both girls were crying by this time, and Martha patted Verda comfortingly, suggesting a good sleep. As they went out Doris glanced at the Queen of Spades and shrugged.

Martha had scarcely bade Verda good-night when Verda listened for a moment, then, with the best Rahnea had given her, hurried out to Doris' room, where in the light she began smearing the ointment on the portieres, tracing carefully with her finger. She heard a noise and retreated, just before Doris entered.

As she began to let down her hair Doris' eye fell on a photograph of the dead Judson Whitney. Was he her father—or was she really the Grand Duchess Alexia? At any rate, she had loved the man she believed to be her father.

Just then the door opened, and Verda stole in, at a most lucky time for her. "Dear," she said with a soft caress, "I know what you are thinking. If your father could only speak again!"

Doris was on the verge of tears as Verda embraced her, choking her own sobs, said goodnight again and went out. She looked at the photograph again and replaced it with a sigh. Then she turned to the bed and slowly began to disrobe.

ANECDOTES OF THE FAMOUS

Innumerable are the stories—many of them "chestnuts"—of the ready wit of the English Mr. Justice Darling. Here is one that is new to me, at all events.

It appears that one day while trying a case he was disturbed by a young man who kept moving about in the rear of the court, lifting chairs and prying under seats.

"Young man," exclaimed the learned judge at last, "you are making a good deal of unnecessary noise. What are you doing?"

"M'lord," replied the offender, "I have lost my overcoat and am trying to find it."

"Well," came the witty reply, "people often lose whole suits in here without making all that fuss."

FOR SHAMROCK DAY

A Few Suggestions That Many Will Appreciate

By Loretto C. Lynch

(Instructor War Cookery, New York Evening High School for Women.)

EVEN in war time there should be simple entertainments in the home; and St. Patrick's Day offers perhaps an excuse for a little merriment after this unusually hard Winter.

The housewife usually has to see to the refreshments and of the entertainment, at least; and, with so many kitchen war rules upon us the average woman is much perplexed as to how to manage, according to my mail.

There are a number of "allowed" sandwich fillings. Men folk are especially fond of Bermuda onion sandwiches when properly made.

Chop a Bermuda onion into small bits. Add a level teaspoonful of sugar to a half pint of water and, when the sugar has dissolved, pour the mixture over the onion. Let it stand an hour or more. Drain off the water and moisten the onion with mayonnaise. This filling is especially tasty with rye or graham bread. One large onion will furnish enough filling for fifty sandwiches. Chopped watercress, moistened with mayonnaise, makes a very seasonable, inexpensive filling.

Chopped chicken, cream cheese and ground walnuts both make appropriate fillings. Shamrock sandwich cutters may be obtained at any of the better shops. Perhaps you would prefer to serve a salad, but when you hear that olive oil is four or five dollars a gallon you almost give up the idea.

There are a number of excellent oils upon the market at a fraction of the cost of real olive oil. Here is a good recipe that will give enough mayonnaise for twelve portions:

MAYONNAISE DRESSING

Yolk 1 egg, 1 level teaspoon sugar, 1 level teaspoon salt, ½ level teaspoon mustard, few grains cayenne pepper, 1 cup salad oil, 2 or 3 tablespoons of lemon juice.

Then oil may be added a little more quickly. This dressing should be stiff enough to hold its shape.

Lobster, crab, tuna fish, salmon or chicken are all appropriate for salads. Use equal parts of the one you select and celery chopped.

Capers, canned pimentos, olives, hard cooked eggs, green peppers and lettuce or watercress are all first aids to the salad maker.

A tiny vegetable cutter, purchasable at the better stores, will give you a chance to cut tiny shamrocks from the green pepper with which to garnish the salad.

Any good sponge cake recipe, made with potato flour, will serve the purpose. Bake in a shallow pan or very tiny muffin tins. For a conservation icing, try this:

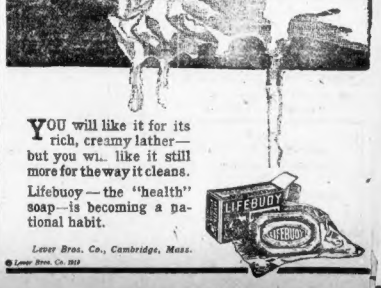
CONSERVATION ICING

Two cups very light corn syrup, 1 egg white, 2 teaspoons butterine.

Boil syrup until it spins a thread. Add butterine. Pour slowly on to the beaten white of egg, beating constantly until stiff enough to spread on cake. Color a light green with a tiny bit of green vegetable color paste. A small bottle of green cherries cut into halves or quarters will furnish the extra touch of color in decorating the cake.

And whatever games you play, if there is going to be a prize, get it from Uncle Sam. Thrift Stamps or a War Savings Stamp will be the most patriotic and suitable gift.

Ices or ice cream of a green hue and either cold or hot drinks will provide the finishing touches to your day.



YOU will like it for its rich, creamy lather—but you will like it still more for the way it cleans.

Lifebuoy—the "health" soap—is becoming a national habit.

Buckle to the Spade and Dig the Hole for the Huns

By International News Service.

New York, March 14.—"Cultivate a garden and buckling to the spade dig the hole for the Hun! otherwise he will dig yours."

Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the National War Garden Commission, gave this as the slogan for the people of the United States when he arrived here to attend the Flower Show, where a model garden is on exhibition.

Plant war gardens and plan to feed yourself," is his injunction, "or turn out the lights on the Statue of Liberty and pile the sand bags around Washington's statue.

"Leave the fighting to the fighters and see to it that they have food. Whether no one feel them is what worries Kaiser William."

WARTIME RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR

How to Make an Inexpensive Mixture That Will Darken Streaked or Faded Gray Hair.

Gray, streaked or faded hair can be immediately made black, brown or light brown, whichever shade you desire, by the use of the following remedy that you can make at home:

Merely get a small box of Orlex powder at any drug store. It costs only 75 cents, and no extras to buy. Dissolve it in one ounce of water and comb it through the hair. Full directions for use are in each box.

You need not hesitate to use Orlex as a $100.00 gold bond comes in each box guaranteeing the user that Orlex powder does not contain silver, lead, zinc, sulphur, nitrate, aniline, coal tar products or their derivatives.

It does not rub off, nor stickly or gummy and leaves the hair fluffy. It will make a gray haired person look twenty years younger.—Advertisement.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You can Bring Back Color and Lustre with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. At little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and not a medicine. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Advertisement.

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if you feel Backachy or have Bladder trouble.

Most forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidneys, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the juice of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases. —Advertisement.

FAIR MERMAID TO GIVE PIER BOYS A TALK

Many Amusement Events Planned for Good-Natured Bluejackets

By PAUL WHELTON

Aboard the Receiving Ship, Commonwealth Pier, March 14.—The tars aboard ship here do not lack entertainment nowadays, and so great in number are the offers from all sources to visit the "Yeasalled" and entertain the bluejackets that an embryo "booking-office" is now maintained.

Evidently the salt-water sons of Uncle Sam's war organization appealed to Annette Kellermann, mermaid de luxe, for she has requested permission to meet the receiving bluejackets tonight in "Seaside Theatre" aboard ship.

Miss Kellermann will tell the pier sailors some of the incidents in the life of a "movie person" and her talk will be on moving picture in general.

Tomorrow night ninety selectable matinee girls from Simmons College, composing the Simmons Glee and Mandolin Clubs, will descend on "Seaside" and will hold full sway during the evening hours. Ninety girls is a considerable attraction on board any ship and much fun.

You need not hesitate to use Orlex as a $100.00 gold bond comes in each box guaranteeing the user that Orlex powder does not contain silver, lead, zinc, sulphur, nitrate, aniline, coal tar products or their derivatives.

It does rub off, nor stickly or gummy and leaves the hair fluffy. It will make a gray haired person look twenty years younger.—Advertisement.

AYER 'ROOKIES' FREED FROM QUARANTINE

Manoeuvre Combat Training Latest Out-Door Work at Cantonment

By William Flynn.

Camp Devens, Ayer, March 14.—Today marked an epoch in the lives of the "rookies" who came to this cantonment in the last draft quota. They were released from quarantine and for the first time were allowed the freedom of the cantonment enjoyed by the men who have graduated from the "rookie" class.

The members of the 4th battalion, 151st depot brigade, planned to celebrate the occasion this afternoon by parading about the cantonment with two bands.

Many of the men in this battalion are "rookies" from Boston. The men received the announcement lifting the quarantine with joy as the monotony of remaining cooped up in their barracks when mid-drilling was getting on their nerves.

The report that 2,000 or more men are soon coming here to be quartered in the depot brigade is yet to be confirmed. Major Gen. Norman Marrower, division intelligence officer, declared today that nothing official had been received at headquarters concerning the coming of negro troops to this cantonment.

Manoeuvre combat training is one of the latest features of work in the open taken up by units of the 76th division and the men are receiving practical instruction in seeking out fictitious enemy outfits and the most efficient methods of attack.

Many of the combat problems are worked out by officers on maps before the manoeuvres are attempted and the training has been largely a technical war game.

The heavy thaw which turned the roads of the cantonment into rivers of water and mud also robbed the C battery commander's detail of the 301st field artillery of one of their favorite delicacies—frozen maple syrup.

Efforts are several "Con sacks" to battery C of the 301st field artillery, and have been astonishing their comrades with their daring accomplishments.

Among them is Private James Waron of Peabody, who is one of the most patriotic of all the men in the army.

He took out $10,000 worth of life insurance, which is the limit. The amount he willed the full amount to the Red Cross out of gratitude for a security he received through that organization.

FIRE FRENCH CANNON AT DEVENS

Fifty Officers Attend Event Incident to Initial Firing of French Weapon

By William Flynn.

Camp Devens, Ayer, March 14.—French infantry cannon of the kind used by the French armies in their operations in Flanders have made their appearance at this cantonment and will be used for instruction purposes by the men in the division's trench cannon schools.

More than fifty officers, including the infantry generals and all the infantry colonels, gathered on the rifle range and participated in the ceremonies which accompanied the firing of the first cannon.

The gun used for the demonstration was brought here directly from France and was cleverly decorated in its original coat of camouflage.

The gun crew consisted of non-commissioned officers from all of the headquarters companies of the infantry regiments who are attending the school conducted by Captain Amman of the French military mission, assisted by Captain Nolan of the 19th company, 151st depot brigade.

The firing was directed by Captain Amman. The first shot was fired by Corporal James J. DeLonchamp of Amsterdam, N. Y., and Sergeant Ralph Blume of Philadelphia, both of the headquarters company of the 302rd infantry regiment.

Each of the colonels fired the gun. The target was the stump of a tree and the range was 600 metres and considering the lack of practice the marks were unusually good.

The gunners directed and fired the gun lying flat in the snow. The gun, which is portable and used principally in trench fighting, was drawn to the range by a mule.

As a given command the gun was dismounted and carried by the crew to a new station in the allied position. The work was new and interesting to the men, and the effect of this weapon is expected to greatly facilitate the training of the students in the trench cannon school.

Lieutenant-Colonel M. B. Stewart, chief of staff, and one of the most able and popular officers of the cantonment, has been promoted to the rank of colonel.

Colonel Stewart was commander of the New England division at the first Plattsburgh officers' training camp.

He is a graduate of the War and General Staff Colleges at Washington

EDITORIAL

The new order barring civilians from Camp Devens from retreat in the evening until after reveille the following morning is a long step in the right direction and is bound to have results.

The reason for this order has not been made public, but it is known the authorities at the cantonment have been trying to find several mysterious leaks for some time.

Liquor and drugs have found their way into the cantonment when it was believed all possible channels of this traffic had been shut off. More liberty has been granted the public at large at Camp Devens than at most other cantonment in the country, but there are many reasons to believe this liberty will be greatly curtailed in the future.

Persons with no particular purpose have been found wandering about the cantonment at night and with the approach of warmer weather this privilege threatened to become a menace.

Constant watch for spies is maintained all over the cantonment and the new order should greatly facilitate the men engaged in this vigil.

BUMKIN ISLAND NAVAL HEAD

Medical Officer Dow, in his desire to be always able to catch a glimpse of his feet, is indulging in daily physical exercises. According to Medico Dow, his view of the floor is not to be obstructed by his waist line if he can avoid it.

"Bill Perrior" is the answer to the secret of the well-groomed faces of Bumkin Island tars on liberty. Perrior runs a chain of the barber shop and doesn't kick at using a little bay rum.

Candidates for the baseball team will be called out this week by Bill Stewart. There are a number of former big leaguers at this station and a good team is assured. Wm. Perrior is out for the job of holding down the initial station, but supporters of Murray, a leading candidate, say Thorner will have to show some real ball in order to be given the regular assignment.

PROTEST MADE BY OWNERS OF AUTOS

Object to Proposed Surtax—Term It Unfair—Motor Racing Ban Lifted

By C. F. DONNOCKER.

There was strong opposition to the proposed bill increasing the taxation on automobiles, which came before the Taxation Committee at the State House. Senator Gifford, the father of the bill, supported it on the petition of H. B. Eastwood and others. Senator Gifford said that it was necessary to raise more money this year to finance the expenses of the State and that this bill was drawn by the Highway Association and embodied their views as to the best way a fair tax for owners and drivers.

The bill proposes, for one year, an increased tax for all registered automobiles, except commercial vehicles and those of manufacturers and dealers of the first three classes fee is $15, otherwise $10; $1 for motor-cycles; $6 for the first two registered by a manufacturer or dealer and $1 for each subsequent machine; $2.50 for each motor boat and motor vehicle and $2 for each operator or chauffeur.

AS WAR REVENUE.

Senator Gifford said that it had been figured up that, on the basis of last year, this increase would net the State $1,314,000. The public service committee he said, and many others who had been consulted, regarded this tax as a war measure and should be entirely right. He is a member of the Senate committee on ways and means and familiar with the State finances and the ways of raising money.

He said, however, that the poll tax should be increased $1 for every man and payment made compulsory, but this surtax on automobiles would fall where everybody would feel that there was plenty of ability to pay. An increase of poll tax would net the State about $1,000,000. Automobile owners get so much from the public, he said, that they ought to be willing to pay the extra tax proposed.

Senator Gifford said that a Boston automobile dealer, stated that motorists already pay four times, and if this bill were passed they would have to pay six. Only a few motor car dealers in Boston, he said, are making money and they have a hard enough time collecting the federal tax on cars.

Others who appeared in opposition were J. T. Sullivan of the Bay State Automobile Association, Representative Shedd of Tewksbury who spoke for the farmers; Day Baker of the Boston motor truck dealers, G. F. Bowen for the Team Owners' Association, C. B. Hughes for the Automobile Legal Association and U. S. Harris, a Boston truck dealer.

TO NAME SUB-COMMITTEES.

At the hearing, the Committee on Taxation voted to report some sort of a bill for sur-tax on automobiles as the sense of the petitioners. A sub-committee will be selected to draft a bill for consideration by the full committee.

The American Automobile Association lifted its ban on motor racing when the contest board met and restored to the control of speed competitions for the season of 1918. It was decided to confine the sport on the same basis as last year, as motorists have been assured that there will be no shortage of gasoline.

Three dates for speed racing have been assigned to the Harry Grant Sweepstakes Bay speedway. These are May 30, Aug. 13, and Sept. 21.

Thirty-one Garford trucks have arrived in Boston after a journey of 1000 miles from the factory at Lima, Ohio. The trucks averaged 100 miles a day and were a novel sight. There were sixteen driven over the road and fifteen of these each carried cargoes weighing 5 tons. C. P. Carey, the local manager, says that the trip through the Alleghany Mountains was most severe as the drives encountered snow, ice rain and even passed through a small cyclone while coming through Ohio.

This method of bringing in the cars is sure to become more and more common now as it is impossible to depend on express service or freight trains now.

The trucks also brought a big supply of parts as it is almost impossible to get them here any other way.

Women Machinists Doing Bit, Making Liberty Motors

By International News Service.

Washington, March 14.—American women machinists are making liberty motors for their brothers to use to defeat Germany.

In the factories now producing hundreds of the perfected U. S. Twelves, which outspeed anything else abroad, scores of women are operating machine tools, multiple drill presses, lathes, planers and milling machines that are transforming castings into conquest.

It was learned from officials of the air craft production board that the employment of women has proved highly satisfactory in releasing men for other work and for service in the army and navy where trained mechanicians are needed for the aircraft work overseas.

BAPTISMAL FONT WAS SOLDIER'S MESS TIN

Boston Man Describes Joint Catholic and Protestant Service in France

Dr. Joel E. Goldthwaite of Boston, a major in the American army in France and director of military orthopedics for the expeditionary forces, tells the following story of how a Roman Catholic and a Protestant chaplain work together in meeting the spiritual demands of the soldiers who are going into the trenches.

In speaking of the services held by these chaplains Major Goldthwaite, in the current number of the The Congregationalist, says the letter is quoted in full, says:

"The service was conducted first by the Catholic chaplain, and after mass the sermon was preached by the Protestant chaplain. The relation between these two men is delightful, and the spirit shown by them all through this service was as fine as could be.

MEN WERE ALL ATTENTION.

"The sermon was a splendid ringing appeal to the thirty-six hundred men for the best that is in them, taking the Christ standard as it was never needed before, and the response from the men was fine in their attention and expression.

"No one could have heard that appeal without being better for it, even though the influence might not be for long. Every one realized that it would be a long time before all these men could be all together again, for such a service, as well as the fact that many of them would not be of the number when they came back.

"Through the mass and between the parts of the service the band played well-known hymns in a very acceptable manner, and after the sermon there was a baptismal service, at which seventy-five or thirty men were baptized by the Protestant chaplain.

"A similar service was performed by the Catholics in the church near by. In this service, performed in the square, the baptismal font was a soldier's mess tin, and the stand for it was made by sticking three rifles.

ALL WERE BAPTIZED.

"The Colonel of the regiment is a Catholic and he stood beside the chaplain (Protestant) and act only received the font but acted as sponsor for them. The man came up, one by one, and went up the temporary steps to the altar, and the onlookers, were baptised.

COMEDY SONGS POPULAR WITH U. S. BOYS

Excellent and Varied Strains Selected by Men in Service to Pass Happy Hours

But not all of the songs the boys are singing are tender songs, exactly, for there are comic songs, surely.

Do not imagine for a minute, dear friends, that the Jack and the Tom and the Harry and the Dan and the Pete we all know—and love—who went smiling away from us at the call of Liberty, are suddenly forgotten how to laugh and smile, joke and "josh."

Far be it from so!

And so one of our famous young song writers—and we have a host more of them than any other nation under the sun) has turned out a happy little thing with a "swing" to it, and a smile in it, in which he pictures a young Yankee (rather slightly exaggerated, we would venture) who is being nursed back to health and strength and good cheer by a charming, oh! an extremely charming young nurse:

I don't want to get well,
I don't want to get well—
I'm in love with a beautiful nurse.
Early every morning, night and noon—
She feeds me with a spoon;
I don't want to get well,
I don't want to get well—
I'm glad they shot me on the fighting line;
The doctor says that I'm in bad condition,
But Oh, Oh, I've got so much ambition,
I don't want to get well,
I don't want to get well—
For I'm having a wonderful time!

In Series Number Two of the Army and Navy War Songs—which will be distributed free with next Sunday's ADVERTISER-AMERICAN, there is also a song of the "frolicking" order called "Hail! Hail! the Gang's All Here!"

And there is, of course, a new and very tender love-song, entitled, "I'll Come Back to You When It's All Over." Each of the songs already named appears in "Number Two," which is music for the piano. This second edition of Army and Navy War Songs, therefore, is much better than the first, which, by the way, went like hot cakes everywhere in New England.

"I am all sold out of SUNDAY ADVERTISERS!" Were you one of the thousands of people who read from newsdealers last Sunday? Please take this advice. Order the SUNDAY ADVERTISER today! Then you will be sure to get it.

Campaign to Raise $10,000

MISS LORRAINE'S FEATHER FARM A SECRET

By FRED J. McISAAC.

Lillian Lorraine possesses the thickest and tallest collection of aigrettes in captivity.

As the importation of aigrettes is absolutely prohibited and as those in this country have long since been disposed of and most of them worn out, Lillian would not be able to appear in public were she not there.

The prima donna of "Odds and Ends" then sought a secret, and she found it.

Now, after weeks of strenuous work, she has a splendid shape. I think it was Harry Watson who cured me. Even during the rehearsals his suggestions made me sit up straighter, sides ached."

"Do your own comedy scenes amuse you?"

LIKES TO LAUGH.

"I can keep a straight face pretty well while I am on the stage alone, but when I am playing with Jack I have the greatest difficulty in not laughing. The opening night I broke down in 'Since Hector Was a Pup,' and the audience, of course, thought it was so ridiculous. Both Mr. Watson and my husband, Mr. Norworth, knows my difficulty about laughing and they try hard to make me laugh on the stage."

"Well, about those aigrettes. How do you manage to secure such wonderful specimens?"

"Back up, back up," exclaimed Miss Lorraine. "Do you suppose I am going to give away my graft!"

MISS LILLIAN LORRAINE, who is proud of her wonderful collection of handsome aigrettes.

'merry merry' for three years before I got a small part. Do I look fat?"

"You look fine."

"I never felt better save for this cold. When I first started in 'Odds and Ends' I was run down and ill. Now, after weeks of strenuous work, I am a splendid shape. I think it was Harry Watson who cured me. Even during the rehearsals his suggestions made me sit up straighter, sides ached."

LIBERTY LOAN RECESS FOR CONGRESS?

By International News Service.

Washington, March 14.—A ten-days' recess of Congress is sought by Senators and Representatives to return to their home districts and boom the Liberty Loan campaign will be proposed by Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo to Speaker Clark of the House and Vice-President Marshall within the next few days.

If the campaign is to be a sweeping success it is of primary importance to interest the farmers of the country, officials say. Farm communities, which during the last campaign were given a full understanding of the situation, bought heavily of the bonds, but farmers of many sections never have bought stocks or bonds of any sort and regard even the government bonds with suspicion.

The Illinois farmer went to his country banker during the last campaign and said he would buy a Liberty bond if the banker would guarantee it to writing. Advocates of the recess plan believe that if the men and the thousands like him can be told by his representative in Congress that a government bond was "as good as his right hand" he would have had no hesitation.

Senators and Representatives who will stump re-election this fall are expected to welcome the plan, for it will give an opportunity for mending political fences while promoting the bonds.

During the three weeks remaining before opening of the third war bond campaign on April 6, it was pointed out today, all urgent legislation now before both houses can be disposed of, leaving other important measures to be attacked with renewed vim after the recess.

"MISS SPRINGTIME" SEAT SALE OPENS MONDAY

The seat sale begins today at the Tremont Theatre for the two weeks' engagement of the original company of Klaw & Erlanger's musical comedy success, "Miss Springtime," which opens its short stay next Monday evening. It is sure to be a treat for Bostonians to witness the original company, the leaders of which are George MacFarlane, Elsie Alder, John E. Hazzard, John E. Young, Frances Cameron, Charles Meakins, Wayne Nunn and Nicholas Burnham. Seats are ready for the entire engagement.

ATTENTION
Machinists and Toolmakers
Our entire factory is employed on government work, making six and nine-inch shells, and we have a number of which we have large contracts, and our manufacturing facilities are such that we can offer steady employment, principally to the A-1 mechanic.
This work is considered by the men to be the best they have ever had, as there is no piecework, and everybody can work to his limit of capacity. Time and a half for all overtime. The tools that we have to work with are all new. The factory is new, and the general factory conditions are as good as can be reasonably expected. We have no labor trouble, never have had, and can give a good record of satisfied workmen.
If you are a good all-around general machinist used to good and close work, or a good all-around toolmaker or gauge and fixture maker, and want good, steady work three 8-hour shifts, 24 hours per day, then and only then call or write for a worked. Shifts change each month. We will refund transportation charges from Boston after thirty days work with us if you are now employed on government work. Any where you are. If not, apply to

Read What Public Service Commission Says of "L" Situation

The recommendation which our Public Service Commission made in favor of public control of the Boston Elevated Street Railway closed with the following statement which every one ought to read:

The situation is made worse by war-time conditions and by the distrust and resentment which poor service has engendered in the public mind. What is necessary is to restore stability and confidence, give reasonable protection to investors, and take such steps as are practicable to recover lost ground at the earliest possible moment and insure efficient and economical operation and adequate service.

In the judgment of the Commission, any of the ordinary methods of providing relief would be insufficient. If the company is merely given the right to charge a 6-cent fare, which is what it wishes, there is no likelihood, under present financial conditions, that any large amount of capital would be forthcoming, except at excessive cost, or that any plan of rehabilitation would be adopted which would really go to the root of the difficulty. The company's apparent intention is to leave discarded property on its books and to inflate its capitalization still further by issuing bonds for replacement purposes and spreading the cost over a long series of years. For this purpose, which is clearly undesirable if it can be avoided, the plan now proposed substitutes a program of rehabilitation without inflation of capital, the fullest benefits of which would at once be realized.

Unusual conditions demand unusual remedies. The Commission believes that in the present emergency private credit and private enterprise are unequal to the task and that no fundamental improvement can be accomplished unless the whole community puts its shoulder to the wheel and pulls this system of railways out of the slough into which it is rapidly sinking, the burden being shared by stockholders, taxpayers and car riders.

The plan which we have outlined has the advantage over any other which has been suggested, that it definitely establishes the status of investors; creates public confidence in the administration of the company's affairs and conditions favorable to the effecting of all feasible operating economies; provides, at relatively low cost, a sure source of new capital; takes care of depreciation; makes possible, without inflation, whatever rehabilitation of the property is practicable under present conditions; distributes the burden in the emergency fairly between car riders and the whole community, and makes it certain that any increase in fares which may be made will be used to insure better service at lower operating cost.

It may be that under present conditions, shortage of labor and materials will prevent any material improvement immediately in the transportation situation, no matter what is done, but it is certain that the plan which we recommend will offer the best assurance of improvement that can be given and will impose the least burden upon car riders if conditions prove unfavorable to development.

Sunlight Will Save Bills for Gas and Electricity

When We Use More Daylight We Will Waste Less Money

Copyright, 1918, by the Star Company

The Daylight Savings bill, now before the House of Representatives, should be passed now so as to effect an immediate saving in the use of gas and electricity.

Both gas and electricity mean coal; and coal is still expensive and hard to get.

We have fallen into the foolish custom of waiting till the sun has been shining three or four hours before getting to work.

The habit is pretty firmly fixed, and only national legislation can break it.

But the Daylight Savings bill, once passed, will bring about such important savings that the habit will soon die out.

Just now, when we are all united for the purpose of winning the greatest war in all history, every saving is necessary, everything that helps efficiency is imperative.

The Daylight Savings bill will speed up the work in the shipyards, add greatly to the output of the munition factories, give more time for the workmen who are engaged on our great airplane fleet, and increase production in every war industry.

It has already passed the Senate, but it seems to be dragging a slow course through the House.

Every day of delay is dangerous. The people sorely need the coal that the measure will save, the country needs the ships and munitions and war materials that it will help to get ready for shipment.

There is no one measure that will be so useful at the present time.

We hope that the House will wake up to this fact, and cutting out all delay, hurry it to its passage.

The sunlight will do the rest.

Ach! Such Gratitude

ELIZABETH JORDAN'S ARTICLE

Sentimental Katherine Picked Many Failures, but When She Brought Home a Lovely Looking Sailor Boy She Did the Family a Real Service. They Had to Admit It, Too!

By Elizabeth Jordan

HE was a very young sailor—barely eighteen. Only one member of the family knew him. This member was Katherine, a sentimentalist.

Katherine was always doing odd things and adopting new proteges. She had picked up the sailor boy on the street and had brought him home to dinner "because he looked lonesome," she privately explained.

The family received the sailor boy with outward warmth, but with some inward reservations. For all the family knew, he might turn out "another of Kate's failures."

Some of the family's reserve perished in the moment of the sailor's first smile. It was a charming smile, shy, boyish, wistful. His manner was charming, too—very simple, very natural.

Suddenly the members of the family realized that the sailor was taking the same chance they were, and was taking it in a fine sporting spirit. It was quite possible, they now saw, that he might not like them! They began to hope that he would like them.

Becoming Attached

The sailor boy did like them. That was soon clear. There was warm friendliness in his frank brown eyes as they turned from face to face. There was something touching in his delighted glance around the big living room, in his longing look at the crowded book shelves.

The family observed with regret that he was eating very sparingly. They wanted to see him enjoy a good meal. He observed their disappointment.

"I've got to be pretty careful," he explained with his wide, boyish grin. "I'm only out of the hospital today. I've had appendicitis."

It was easy to start him off after that. He was taking the midnight train "home" for a ten days' furlough. Everyone had been so good to him at the hospital, he said. The doctors were great, and the nurses were simply "dandy." But the prime sport, it appeared, was to watch the other fellows come out of the ether after their operations.

"Some of them sing," said the sailor boy, "and some of them pray, and some of them swear. Most of 'em are pretty funny. One fellow preached a sermon. We've called him 'the sky pilot' ever since. Another chap cried and cried. He's 'Baby Mine' now.

"What did you do?" some one asked.

The sailor boy hesitated. A deep flush covered his face to the roots of his fair hair. For the first time his ease of manner deserted him.

"Why—I—I—well—they said I—I talked about a girl!" he stammered. "So—so now they call me 'Lotharlo!'"

The family began to like the sailor boy very much indeed.

From the hospital the conversation turned to his ship. The life there was mighty jolly, it appeared. He liked the commander and all the fellows. They were the best in the service.

And people were so good to them. Why, at Christmas time perfect strangers had sent them not only boxes but Christmas stockings filled with candy and "smokes."

"It was nice to find something in our stockings besides, cold, wet feet!" he added, simply. The family began to love the sailor boy.

"Speaking of feet," he went on, "one of our fellows got a box with a pair of fine wool socks in it. He was awfully glad to get them. He put them right on. All that day his left foot hurt him. He didn't know what was the matter, and he didn't have time to take off his shoes.

"The pain got worse and worse. That night when he took off his new left sock he felt something inside of it. He pulled it out. It was a crumpled-up piece of thick writing paper. On it was written: 'God bless your tired, aching feet!'"

Winning Them

By this time the family really loved that sailor boy. He was doing most of the talking now, and everybody was glad to listen.

His hardest work at first, it seemed, had been his first watch in the "crow's-nest." The climb up there was so long, and he was so high when he got there. When the ship rolled badly he could "almost scoop up the sea" with his hands. And his knees were giving way under him and he was "scared stiff."

"But of course one gets used to it," he added cheerfully. "After the first time I didn't mind it much."

But the sailor boy made his biggest hit in the last five minutes of his visit. Something was said about sending him a box.

"That's awfully good of you," he said, "but if you don't mind, there's something I'd like better. You see, I've got everything I need. My family keeps me supplied. But there's one fellow on the ship that has never had a thing. He hasn't any folks, and no one else remembers him. I'll give you his name. If you'd send him a box he'd think it was the greatest thing that ever happened."

With his little pea-jacket buttoned up around his neck and his little round hat in his hand, the sailor boy was saying good-night.

"I've had an awfully good time," he said, with his nice grin.

He had no suspicion that he had given the family "an awfully good time," too.

Democracy's Army

By Prince T. Woods

(TO OUR BOYS—HERE AND "OVER THERE")

AS restless sands on wind-swept shore
We're marching on!
From every hearth and cottage door
We're marching on!

Our drums athrob with flare and roll,
While call of bugles searches soul,
Shrill and clear is the plaint of fife;
What more can he give who gives his life?
We're marching on!

To Liberty's music by Freedom's band
We're marching on!
From farm and town throughout the land
We're marching on!

With sturdy tramp, and song on lips,
We gain the sea to board our ships;
With cheers, not tears, till again we meet,
The smiles of loved ones wing our feet,
We're marching on!

In Democracy's cause for which we fight
We're marching on!
To bring all peoples Justice and Right
We're marching on!

Then speed the day when we win peace,
When strife throughout the world shall cease,
And brotherhood in the hearts of men
Makes the whole world safe—and home again!
We're marching on!

THOUGHTLESS LITTLE BIRD, SING FOR HUBBY

By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow

HE is puzzled and bewildered. He has tried to do everything he thinks is fair and right, and he is in the middle of a deep-blue muddle. So he has written me a letter.

Letters, by the way, are character revealing. This one is straightforward and well expressed. It shows that the writer is a man of kindly impulses and deep affections, one who in the adjustment of a difficulty is willing to go two-thirds of the way to the other person's one-third.

Family Burdens

This is his life as he describes it. He is a driver, and he is paid good wages, withholding only enough for tobacco and minor necessities. He gets up at five in the morning and prepares his own breakfast. His working hours are ostensibly from six in the morning until five in the evening, but "five" is a mere term for any time when he gets through—sometimes it is eleven.

If he gets home at a normal hour he finds his wife and baby all dressed up and ready to go out. His wife insists that he accompany them on visits to friends and relatives, or else take them to the motion pictures. If he demurs, because he has had an extra hard day, there are tears and tempers. If the quarreling is prolonged she goes to her mother's, taking the baby with her, and does not return for a day or so.

He asks this question:

"Do you think a man who works sometimes from fourteen to sixteen hours a day at hard labor is ready to go home and carry a baby around visiting, or sit at a show, when every muscle aches and rest and sleep seem the only and grandest things in the world?

"I feel like chucking up the whole business," he goes on, "and letting her do as she likes. But, Mrs. Woodrow, I have the grandest little baby, and I would rather stand anything than give it up."

Oh, marriage is certainly a complex affair. I wonder if big wife is one of those canary-bird women, or if she just hasn't yet looked the facts of life squarely in the face?

A Canary Bird

The symbol and counterpart of a certain type of woman is the canary bird. It is a pretty, fluffy, silly little thing, quite content to hop about in its ornamental cage and twitter. It dreams of no independent flights, or of seeking its own food, or of choosing its own location for a nest. Its mind is occupied with its bath, the fish bone upon which it sharpens its bill, and such table delicacies as chickweed and bird seed.

But the instinct of self-preservation, or rather self-interest, is implanted in its tiny brain. It sings for its living, and so it pays as it goes. It wouldn't have the ornamental cage and the chickweed if it didn't. It wouldn't get them if it were not for its light and exquisite song, and the cat would get it.

There are women who haven't the instinctive foresight of the canary. They want the equivalent of the ornamental cage and the chickweed, etc., but they refuse to burst into song. They have no idea of the quid pro quo.

This man's wife entered into a business partnership with him when she married him. His agreement was to make the living; hers to expend it in maintaining their mutual home. But what is the reserve capital on which they both depend? It is the man's health.

To preserve that he requires nourishing, well-cooked and sufficient food, proper hours of rest, decent, clean and comfortable surroundings; and as health of body depends very greatly on ease of mind and freedom from worry, these are as necessary as the material comforts in keeping the capital intact.

Just Thoughtless

But this woman isn't thinking about the reserve capital. She is considering nothing but her own personal desires and pleasures and vanities. She isn't even thinking about the baby, when she drags it from pillar to post every evening to the unhealthy excitement of lights and voices and people when it should be sound asleep.

DISPOSITION DOCTORS TO THE FRONT, PLEASE!

By Winifred Black

THERE was something the matter with this typewriter this morning.

No question about it, there certainly was!

It rattled and rumbled and shivered and shook, and when you wanted to make a dash it stuck, and when you wanted to shift the key, it balked, and I looked and fumbled and peered and couldn't see a thing wrong with it.

I turned it over on its side and on its back and on its face. I oiled it and I cleaned it. I expostulated with it. I begged, entreated, commanded—just as I was on the point of grabbing up a stick of wood from the fireside and beating that typewriter into submission, some calm person intervened and sent for the "machine doctor."

He came, whistled a tune, tossed his hat into one chair, his overcoat into another, gave the machine a look, slipped a little tool out of his pocket, gave it a twist, sat down in the chair by the machine and began writing like a house afire.

"Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the party," said the machine, over and over, as quick as lightning, and just as smooth as glass.

"What was the matter?" said I to the man.

Cause of Trouble

He had his hat on, and was buttoning his overcoat.

"Screw loose," he said, and was gone.

All that fuss about a little bit of a screw that happened to be loose!

I've been thinking about it ever since.

What a common sense person it was who first said that the man who thought the world would never wag as it should until all the men let their hair grow long and all the women wore beards was not "crazy"—he just had a screw loose."

I know so many people who have a "screw loose," and some of them you'd never suspect until you began to look for some real work from them.

They're trim and trig and healthy looking; they're cheerful and good-humored and kindly; they can find their way home when they go down town alone; they can cut the coupons off of their bonds; they can write a receipt and send a bill; but ask them to do something that takes courage, resolution and calm judgment—rattle, rattle, slambang—there's something wrong with the machine—there's a screw loose somewhere.

I know a woman with a nice little husband and a nice little home and a nice little baby—and she's a nice little woman herself—but she went to a meeting and heard a lady in black jet and blue satin talk about the "down-trodden sex," and now the nice little woman wants to come down town to work just to show her really good little husband that she will not be trampled on.

A Doctor Needed

I know a girl—clever, original, energetic, industrious. She has a good family and a good home, but she can't get along with her relatives; so she's out in the world for herself.

She gets one good position after another, and loses every one of them before she's been in the new place a month.

Temper—that's what's the matter with her. She flies into a passion over the least little thing, and then wonders why people don't want to pay her a salary.

I know a man who can do anything in the world but the thing he's paid to do, and that he never, by any chance, can bear even to remember.

When he was in a newspaper office he spent his time inventing a new kind of desk. And when his family put him into a desk factory he spent his time writing headlines and criticising the front page of the first edition.

I know a woman who wants to dominate everybody and everything in her sphere of influence. You must dress as she does, wear the same kind of a hat, like the same sort of shoes, eat the same sort of food—or there's something wrong with you.
